QUARREL OVER PAYMENT OF WAR DEBTS SERIOUS

Delicate Situation Results From Refunding Plans Over French Loan

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Administration officials are seriously concerned about the furore that has been kicked up in Great Britain over the negotiations now in progress between Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Ambassador Jusserand in regard to the funding of France's $4,000,000,000 debt.

What is diplomatically described as a "delicate situation" has been created. And it is freely admitted in official circles here that some skillful maneuvering will be necessary if the United States is to emerge from the negotiations with the money France owes and with the cordiality of Anglo-American relations unimpaired.

What France Owes

Great Britain's insistence that if France is in a mood to talk about paying the United States, she should also be in a mood to talk about paying Britain, has complicated the whole situation. France owes the United States $4,000,000,000. She owes Britain more than $3,000,000,000.

In a strictly technical sense, of course, the quarrel between Britain and France is none of this government's business. Actually it becomes so when the controversy reaches the stage of threatening the success of the present negotiations between Mellon and Jusserand.

It was noticed today that Ambassador Jusserand, speaking in

JAPS INSISTS ON AUXILIARY CRAFT

Orientals Notify League of Opposition to Item On War Vessels

TOKIO, Dec. 6.—The Kokumin Shimbu today announced the government has cabled Ambassador Ishii instructions to inform the League of Nations committee that Japan opposes the restriction of auxiliary warcraft on the same ratios that the Washington conference restricted capital ships. The government contends that auxiliaries are different from capital ships. At the same time Ishii advised that his government opposed the reduction of the army equipment and personnel.

The foreign office decries the Kogumin's report and says that Ishii has not been instructed on these issues and that the government does not expect the disarmament question to be taken up at the Rome meeting of the league on account of the British government's request for a postponement.

Nebraska Suffers In Sleet And Winter Grip as Relief Comes

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 6.—Nebraska was recovering and thawing out today from the most destructive sleet and snow storm it has experienced in years. Wire communication throughout the state was slowly being re-established today despite a heavy coating of ice still encircling the wires.

The damage caused by the two-day storm throughout the state was estimated today at nearly $2,500,000, mostly sustained by telephone and telegraph companies. Damage resulting from the freezing of unprotected winter wheat was more than offset by the needed moisture which followed the thaw.

Wealthy Broker Victim Of 'White Way' Bandits

He is 68 years old.

The broker and his wife who was Mrs. Julia Bachelder, widow of a wealthy Chicago lumberman, had been at one of the exclusive supper cafes. CONGRESS HAS LONGING TO HEAR 'CAL'

President Disappoints In Not Going In Person To Give Message

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—If President Coolidge at the beginning of the next session decides to resume the practice of addressing Congress rather than merely sending in his message to be read by the clerks, there will be rejoicing at both ends of the capitol. Congress didn't realize it, but it had come to like the formal appearances of the President before both houses. Sessions of Congress are drab affairs at best and anything that can be done to lighten or brighten the legislative days is in the nature of a God-send.

Thousands of persons journeyed to the capitol Wednesday to hear President Coolidge's message. It is no disparagement to the contents or quality of the message to say that as an occasion the reading was a disappointment. The clerks enunciate clearly enough, but the proceeding lacked personality. Members of the House of Representatives tried to get up some enthusiasm, but in the Senate there was not the slightest effort nor was there a ripple of applause until the reading was ended.

In the end the effect of the message may be just the same as if personally delivered, but the personal touch was lacking. It may be true that President Coolidge has no particular love for the present Congress, which flouted so many of his proposals during the last session, but when Congress turned against Woodrow Wilson he continued to visit the capitol and read his message so long as he was physically able.

Harding Policy

When Warren Harding came into the presidency he realized the effect of the personal appearances on Senate and House, and although he had no high regard for Mr. Wilson or any of his ways, he continued the custom of addressing Congress as the best means of commanding the attention both of the legislators and the public.

When the President addresses Congress the supreme court is there and the members of the cabinet and other high government officers. The members of

TROJANS-ORANGE WARRIORS CLASH

Wet Field Greets Elevens And 60,000 People Watch Contest

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—Clashing on a wet field, the University of Southern California and Syracuse football elevens met at the Coliseum today in an intersectional tilt before 60,000 fans. The cool, cloudy weather brought the game on even terms, the invading easterners not being forced to play under the usually warm California sun.

The Orangemen, headed by Coach "Chick" Meehan, were given a tremendous ovation when they trotted onto the field, by a large section occupied by alumni of Syracuse, Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania and other eastern colleges. Outweighed several pounds to the man, the invading Orangemen were slight favorites, although the Californians were heavily backed to win.

In 1924 there was appropriated $1,000,000 for relief of the drouth-stricken farmers in New Mexico. There has been loaned from this fund $389,153, and further aid may bring the total loans to $450,000.

FERRY BOATS HIT IN HEAVY SWELLS

Frisco Bay Scene as Two Vessels Crash, Doing $5000 Damages

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—Damage said to run over $5000 was caused early today when two ferry boats collided in the bay just off Alcatraz island.

The two boats, the Golden West, auto ferry, and the steamer Eureka, were both on their way to San Francisco piers when the collision occurred. A huge swell, an aftermath of recent stormy weather on the bay, carried the Eureka on its crest, crashing it into the Golden West.

Few passengers or machines were on the boats at the time and so far as known, there were no injuries. Both vessels were able to continue their regular runs after the impact.

In accordance with the "Try Glendale Merchants First" campaign being sponsored by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, the following resolution was made public from the ofice of Howard I. Wood, secretary, today:

Moved by Director MacBain and seconded by Director Campbell:

"We, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Glendale, California, do sincerely believe that no city can realize a maximum of prosperity and development except by the loyal support and co-operation of its people in all matters connected with business and development;

"That of these activities none is more important than the matter of trading at home;

"That Glendale has stores, business places, hospitals, sanitariums and a personnel of professional services on a par with the best communities in America;

"That such business places and professional services and equipment can and will be made still better by the patronage of Glendale people to Glendale institutions;

"That trading at home and patronizing local institutions and professional people would be equal in increased volume of business to several large new manufacturing institutions;

"Therefore, we ask all members of the Chamber of Commerce and all Glendale people in the interests of building a greater and better Glendale, in sustaining and increasing real estate values, and all that which goes to make up sustained and increased prosperity, to observe the principle of trading at home just as nearly 100 per cent as can possibly be done;

"And we, as a board, and individually, subscribe to this plan and pledge ourselves to observe it to the best of our ability."

Senate Seeks Muscle Shoals Sale, Is Belief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—With administration forces and southern senators practically solidly behind it, prospects were bright today that the Senate early next week would pass the Underwood bill for disposing of the government's costly Muscle Shoals power and nitrate properties.

Though a definite report has not been drafted, it was learned that war department engineers to whom the Underwood measure was referred are strongly inclined to favor it.

While drafting his bill, Senator Underwood, Democrat of Alabama, discussed its chief features with Secretary of War Weeks. In this connection, a study of the bill shows that it proposes to do with Muscle Shoals exactly what President Coolidge suggested in his annual message, that is, should efforts fail to lease the properties to private interests, they should be operated by a federal corporation.

Should the measure pass the Senate, as Republican leaders today predicted it would, the secretary of war would be under obligation to try to dispose of Muscle Shoals to private control before next July.

MYSTERY CONVICT WINS FIRST POINT

Jury Decides Refusal to Work Not Symptoms Of Insanity

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 6—A jury in superior court here has decided that refusal to work does not constitute symptoms of insanity.

As a result of the jury's verdict, Judah Benjamin, the "mystery prisoner," and the man who won't work, was again in solitary confinement in Folsom prison today. Benjamin has already served seven years in the dungeon, and, unless he secures his release from the penitentiary by proving his innocence, may spend the remainder of his life there.

Benjamin, who is serving a life sentence for murdering an Oakland police officer, viewed the verdict of "not insane" as the first victory in his fight for release.

PREDICTION OF FAIR SUNDAY ISSUED BY BUREAU

Practically All of South End of State Receives Plenty of Moisture

Warnings of storm prophets were fulfilled when heavy raindrops literally worth their weight in gold began falling over Glendale and the surrounding territory around 9 o'clock last night. The downpour rapidly increased in intensity and by midnight, when the storm abated, most of the total precipitation of .82 of an inch had fallen.

This brings the season's total in Glendale to 2.57 inches, according to accurate measurements of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 333 West Broadway. Last year up to the same date only .67 of an inch of rain had fallen, her records show.

Snow On Mt. Wilson

Those who were up early were greeted by a mantle of white hovering on the crest of Mt. Wilson. The first rays of the morning sun sent it showering down into a thousand racing brooks that touched parched, sandy throats all the way down to the waiting valleys. So dry was the soil from the long drought that scarcely any flood waters reached the ocean.

At Lake Arrowhead four inches of snow fell, according to reports, and the High Sierras are six inches deep in the glistening blanket. All the watersheds in the higher mountains have replenished their reservoirs, and in the lowlands ranchers are estimating the value of last night's downpour as far up in the thousands.

Fair On Sunday

The storm originated off the north California coast, according to the United States weather bureau, and swept inland and southward, going practically to the Mexican border and then to Nevada and Utah. The weather will be partly cloudy and somewhat cooler tonight and fair Sunday, the bureau reports.

Despite the unsettled weather of this morning, the skies cleared sufficiently in the afternoon to give cheer to the scores of thousands who witnessed the many important football games scheduled throughout Southern California.

With the general cessation of rainfall throughout Southern Cali-

ADVENTISTS TELL FUTURE PROGRAM

Leaders Closing Meet Here Face Issue Evolution Versus Religion

Facing squarely the much controverted issue of evolution versus religious education in the public schools, the executive body of the Seventh-Day Adventists in this section has gone on record as opposed to the presentation of either side of the subject in educational institutions supported by public taxation.

This action was taken in the form of a resolution adopted by the efficiency commission of the Pacific Union conference, at its annual conference held this week at the Glendale sanitarium, Chairman F. E. Corson of Loma Linda presiding. The commission was comprised of prominent Adventist executives from California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, The state schools of our country are maintained for the purpose of teaching established principles of science, and

Whereas, The state schools are supported by citizens of varied religious beliefs, Christian and non-Christian; by those who accept as authority the record of the origin of the human race as recorded in the book of Genesis, and those who believe the human race as now existing to be a product of evolutionary progress,

"We hereby protest against the public schools as a means of propagating these disputed theories. The teaching of evolution is contrary to the divine record of Genesis and destroys faith in the creative power of God. It thus tends to undo the effects of the teachings in Christian homes and plants seeds of doubt in the minds of children.

"Neither would we favor the teaching of religion in the public schools. Such a move would result in a state-established religion and a union of church and state.

Let the public schools confine themselves to the teaching of those things that are demonstrated facts, and leave those that pertain to faith in religion to the home, the private school, and the individual."

Elder J. L. McElhany, president of the Pacific Union conference, and Dr. A. W. Truman, superintendent of the Glendale sanitarium, were among the Glendale Adventists present at the conference when this resolution was adopted.

The forestry department has ruled that a rock crusher cannot be set upon forest reserve land. This decision prevented the operation of a crusher that had been started in Haines canyon on reserve land, but which, it is stated, has been moved to private property adjoining. The ruling of the forestry officials allows for the removal of rock and sand from reserve lands, and there is nothing to prevent the rock crusher from operating on leased land and removing sand and rock from the reserve land.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRASCENTA, Dec. 6.—A busy afternoon was spent Thursday by the women of the guild of St. Luke's of the Mountains, who met at the home of Mrs. A. C. A. Haskins on Waltonia drive, to price and sort articles to place on sale today, when the guild holds its first winter thrift sale. With the first purchases, jams and jellies will be given as long as supply lasts. Coats for all ages, underwear, sweaters, hats, summer and winter dresses, shoes, children's clothes—all are priced at a figure to induce thrifty housewives to buy. No article is marked higher than $2.50. Cooked foods are also on sale. Miss Dowling of Los Angeles made doughnuts for sale. The sale, which is being held in the Hohl building on Honolulu avenue in Montrose, opened at 1 o'clock. A short business session was opened by the president, Mary B. Darrow, who appointed the following women to serve on the nominating committee for the coming year. Mesdames A. W. Brown, Seymour Thomas, F. L. Howard. This committee will meet at the home of Mrs. A. W. Brown on Friday evening, December 12, at 7:30.

A motion made by Mrs. Seymour Thomas, asking that a request be made of the bishop to authorize the spending of $150 from the Sunday service collections for the furnace of the new church and other needed fixtures. The motion was unanimously adopted. Mrs. Haskell of Altadena, who is making a gift of the altar linens to the church, notified Mrs. Thomas the gift would arrive from China in time for the Christmas services. Mrs. Haskell is having the linens embroidered in the Orient, where the laces also will be made. At the conclusion of the business meeting Mrs. Haskins served tea. Those present were: Mesdames E. Scoles, M. S. Collins, S. Thomas, F. L. Howard, A. W. Brown, M. W. Howard, Elizabeth Wattell, E. C. Culberson, Virna H. Walker, Mary B. Darrow, Miss E. Sharp, Deaconess Grebe and the hostess, Mrs. C. A. Haskins.

M. D. Kemper presided Thursday night for the first time at the regular monthly meeting of the La Crescenta Improvement association, when minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted. As advisory board the president appointed Messrs. Harvey Bissell, Arthur Aiken, C. Dransfield, Mark Collins, C. E. Culberson and C. Ross. Harvey Bissell reported on roads, Arthur Aiken on fire, Louise Moissant on entertainment. Mr. Collins, speaking on street signs, suggested the president appoint a committee to look into the matter of proper signs for the many new streets, and Mr. Culberson spoke of a large electric sign to be placed at the intersection of Los Angeles and Michigan avenues. Messrs. Mark Collins, Fred Pinkus, C. E. Culberson and C. Dransfield were appointed to serve. Mark Collins presented the association with a check he had received from the county in rebate of the repair work paid on fire truck after the fire district had been made. In speaking on the fire question Mr. Culberson suggested that it would be wise to have the new fire chief attend the meetings to get acquainted with the people. Mr. Bissell reported that the chief, Mr. Duncan, had been in conference with him in regard to placing fire hydrants and that the work will go ahead as soon as supervisors have the contract. As no fire station to house the new engine has been erected yet, the county authorities are of the opinion the building should be as near to the intersection of Los Angeles and Montrose avenues as possible, as this is the center of the entire valley which would be served with the large engine. Mr. Collins stated Mr. Duncan had a telephone number and said everyone should familiarize themselves with it. In regard to fire hydrants, there is $1500 appropriated for this purpose which will be used only in this matter. The petition to retake into La Crescenta district the western area, which was loaned to Tujunga for their school district, is signed and was presented to Mark Keppel by Mr. Collins in person. Membership committee will be appointed later by the president. It was felt, in view of the success in adding new members last year by a personal canvass, that this be repeated this year. Dues paid from now on in the association will put a member in good standing to January, 1926. Publicity being discussed. George Wales Farrand suggested the secretary take charge of this and get access to The Glendale News and the local paper. Mr. Collins extended thanks to The News and Record Ledger for publicity during the past year. W. Morgan of Tujunga told of the drive in that town for new members which netted 430 members in the organization.

Rev. Kelso of the La Crescenta Community church gave notice of the free-will offering concert of thirty voices, to take place in the church on Thursday, December 11. Mr. O'Leary of New York avenue spoke on changing the name of the association to that of Chamber of Commerce, feeling it was more convincing of the work being done by the members. Dr. Nettleton, in answering Mr. O'Leary, said: "The only improvement in the valley in the last nine or ten years has been received gratis from the county through the efforts and courtesy of the Improvement association, that the board of supervisors had always been willing to do what was requested of them by this body. Mr. Culberson assured the members that there was some confusion in the county office as to how many associations there really were in the valley, but they had told him personally they were always back of the first organization here, the Improvement association. In speaking for the school board, C. E. Culberson, who is president of the body, told of the great increase in the number of pupils who will probably have to go to half-term school next year if there is not some provision made for them for larger quarters. There will be a meeting of the parents, property owners and school board on Monday evening, December 15. Rev. Kelso said a few words for the American Legion brick campaign, in which they are striving to raise funds sufficient to build their post home, and urged the residents of La Crescenta valley to help in this worthy cause. Mr. Farrand stated the free employment bureau of the Verdugo Hills Merchants' association had found employment for fifteen needy persons in the past five weeks. Next meeting will be in January.

SUNLAND NOTES

SUNLAND, Dec. 6.—With the slogan "Better Streets—Better Homes" as an inspiration the leading spirits of Sunland are quietly and systematicaiiy going about the business preliminary to incorporating a municipality. Sunland pioneers and business men and business men of the Valley Center community, which is a part of the Sunland school and voting district, lying midway between Sunland and Tujunga, are said to be back of the move. Incorporation petitions are said to be in circulation, in which the voters will ask county supervisors to call an election for the purpose of incorporating "Sunland," a city of the sixth class, with a home-governing board of trustees consisting of five members who function in the offices of mayor, clerk and assessor, treasurer, marshal tax collector and recorder.

Sunland has been in existence nearly forty years and many of the pioneer residents express the belief that it is about time to graduate from the village class to city ways, at least as far as regards government. Many criticisms have been made of the county supervisors for passing a zoning ordinance in April, this year, which includes Sunland in a Tujunga residential zone in which several businesses are prohibited. Whatever else may happen to Sunland, the one thing intolerable to the true sons is to have their community become part of Tujunga, as they have often expressed their sentiments. Tujunga is a nice little town, they say, but—there is a local pride in local individuality that jealously objects to outside interference in local activities. Has not Sunland been there for forty years, long before Tujunga was thought of? How then, shall an upstart town presume to absorb the individuality of a dignified and venerable neighbor? Famous "last words" in Sunland are: "So this is West Tujunga." Utterance of this speech means an obituary for the speaker. Still, the two communities work and play together in perfect harmony.

Boundaries for the proposed city of Sunland extend from the Los Angeles city limits on the west to a line east of Palm avenue on the east; from the south line of the original Rancho Tujunga to the north line of same. These lines are tentative and not definitely decided on. According to statements made, a systematic canvass of all registered voters will be made. The proposed lines include the home of John Steven McGroarty, California historian and playwright; Monte Vista county park; part of Tujunga wash and a new bridge constructed by the county three years ago; Walnut drive, the main entrance to Big Tujunga canyon.

Informal discussion of incorporation was part of the program at the last meeting of the Valley Center Improvement league. President Kirschman was in the chair.

Mrs. George Shaffer was honered with a surprise party in celebration of her birthday recently. Friends gathered at her Walnut drive home and presented her with remembrance gifts.

Members will be fined for not attending meetings and cases will be taken up for arbitration only after both parties have signed a contract to the effect they will be willing to abide by the decision reached by the board. The multiple listing is also to be adopted by the board.

Women of the La Crescenta Valley Dorcas society will hold a bazaar and sale of miscellaneous clothing at the Montrose Furniture store December 8, 9 and 10. Russia Would Bridge Arctic by Aero Lines

MOSCOW, Dec. 6.—Russia is vitally interested in the prospect to bridge the Arctic with an aerial transportation system, with Rotterdam and San Francisco as its terminals, Professor Voriloff said today. Voriloff is head of the Soviet trans-Arctic flight commission. The Soviet government, Professor Voriloff said, regards the project as a means of shortening Russia's immense distance and the surest way to educate the semi-savage tribes inhabiting the Arctic circle. The government plans to conduct a campaign of civilization in a region as large as the United States, where these tribes now live.

The foremost scientific authorities have been assembled by the government and will submit data on meteorological conditions along the proposed route. The next step will be the erection of radio stations along the course of the flight.

GROWTH OF CITY NEWS TO VISITOR

Jay J. Bryan, Denver Banker, Astonished at Strides Made In Glendale

Jay J. Bryan of Denver, visiting Glendale recently for the first time since 1919, had to rub his eyes to believe what he saw. He left it a town of 10,000 and returned to find it a city of nearly 60,000 population, with tall buildings, heavy traffic and a humming business section.

Mr. Bryan, formerly president of the Capitol Hill State bank of Denver, has sold out all his Colorado interests, he states, and will hereafter make Southern California his home. Glendale, he feels, will be the city he will select for his future business activities. He is now stopping temporarily at a Los Angeles hotel, while Mrs. Bryan is a guest at the Glendale sanitarium.

"Glendale is the brightest, widest-awake city in all Southern California," he says, "and I am satisfied that it is here that Mrs. Bryan and myself will locate."

Boy Scouts Guests at Studio of J.T. Edwards

Members of Troop 11, Boy Scouts, were entertained last night at the studio of J. T. Edwards. Instruction in patrol formation for the flag ceremony was given and was followed by a series of scout games. "Indoor Soccer," a game which the boys invented, created a riot of fun. Part of the evening was spent in viewing the works of art of Mr. Edwards. Refreshments of "hot dog" sandwiches, pie and cocoa were served. The evening closed with "Scoutmaster's Prayer."

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Glorious rainfall during the night materially affected the football business, but it gives assurances of splendid winter crops. Snows in the mountains, too, early in the season will replenish the streams and lakes which have been at lowest ebb in years.

This far-flung country does not appreciate rain, although the occasional storms are taken with good grace. Few people complain about their pleasure being spoiled. Yet it seems a shame that the huskies of the gridiron must sail a sea of mud.

There is no question but what interest in football, as well as other sports, reaches its zenith in Southern California. Practically every school and college have elevens which compare favorably with anything similar institutions in the East produce.

Rain in the Southland is not half so serious as the snowstorms which have hit the East this week-end. Blizzards following in the wake of sleet storms have paralyzed rail and telegraphic communication.

It is interesting to note the efforts of the air mail to make their schedules across the freezing plains of Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado. Also, the news services are resorting to radio where their newspaper clients are isolated. More wonders of the twentieth century!

The Christmas shopping season is in full swing. Stores are having remarkable sales today, despite the weather. Buyers have been holding off until the last minute, it seems; but now that Christmas is little more than two weeks distant it is time to buy.

Those who have consideration for clerks and those who desire the best selections will do their heaviest shopping during the next seven days. Merchants are advertising in The Glendale Evening News. Read this paper for Christmas suggestions.

Governor Richardson very sensibly expresses himself when he says "it is my intention to heed the will of the people" in regard to the highway program. This writer has taken a great interest in the subject, and there is no doubt but what a small increase in gasoline taxes to insure maintenance and a small bond issue to build necessary highways in certain districts should be recommended by the California Highway committee of nine to the state legislature.

However, there should be no "pork barrel" highways built at this time. Only the completion of necessary links in transcontinental routes, the building of the "Mother Lode" highway and the completion of a coast line route for defense purposes should be considered, we believe. Not less than $15,000,000 in a bond issue and not more than $25,000,000 should be considered. The state could well afford to carry that additional burden and care for other departments desiring funds.

Western Rangers to Open Camp Near Lake

Members of Acoma Council, Western Rangers, are lookin forward to the Christmas vacation with interest and are planning to take a trip to Camp Seeley, near Lake Arrowhead, where they will hold camp from December 17 to December 22. Charles Perlee is the guide and Robert Harris is the first chief of the council. A meeting will be held Monday night, at the Wilson Intermediate school, at the usual time. There are twenty members in the council at the present time and any boy between the ages of 11 and 16 is elegible to join.

SON'S TRIBUTE TO ACTRESS MOTHER

Dobinson Player Receives Poem Written by Son, Movie Director

Miss Laura Winston, who plays the role of Mrs. Bundy in "Mamma's Affair" with the Dobinson Players, received a bouquet over the footlights recently and the inscription on the envelope read: "To the first woman I ever met or loved, and loved so long," and in the envelope were the following verses:

When you and I were romance mates,
In the days of ten-twent-thirty;
On three night stands and one week dates
In houses small and dirty.

When the janitor and his progeny
Were usually our audience.
And our trunks were left at the hostelry
To secure our week's subsistence.

Meals were few and far between
And shekels were so flirty;
You were then my romance queen,
In the days of ten-twent-thirty.

Remember now, days of Camille
I was your Armond gay;
No one dreamed your love was real,
When in his arms you lay.

Or when as Borgia you wept sore,
For a boy so fast asleep;
No one knew t'was the son you bore
That the love was true and deep.

Now the years are not so lean
The days are fat and perty;
But you are still my romance queen
As in the days of ten-twent-thirty.

This beautiful tribute was from her son, who in past years was her leading man, and who today is a film director in Hollywood.

Humane Club Members Outline Future Plans

Card, contractor and builder, reported that the animal shelter was ready for occupancy as was also the temporary house for the caretaker. The meeting was presided over by Edwin F. Kulp, president. Men's Club Hears Talk On Chinese Troubles

One of the features of the meeting of the Men's Community club of the Tropico Presbyterian church, which was held in the church parlors last night, was a turkey dinner, prepared by Miss Moody and Miss Brown. McLean, president; F. E. Fry, vice-president, and W. C. Perry, secretary and treasurer. Professor Arthur C. Terrill gave an illustrated lecture on "China's Troubles." He recently returned from China, where for four years he was in charge of the department of mining at the Tei-Yang university, which is the oldest university in China for modern education.

The present officers will go to Monrovia on January 6 to preside at a meeting of the Monrovia post, and the local "wrecking crew" will initiate a large class of candidates for Monrovia, it was announced.

K. F. Butler announced the drum and bugle corps of the post would hold another turkey shoot December 20 and 21. The corps will be officially recognized as a unit of the post, and will participate in the big New Year's parade at Pasadena. W. H. MAMMAS RECEIVE PLAYERS' NOTICE

Dobinson Stock Presents Prize Play for Last Time Tonight

American mammas receive generous mention in the clever presentation of the Harvard prize play "Mamma's Affair," to be given for the last time tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre by the Dobinson Players.

It's a story of two hypochondriac mothers with matrimonial ambition, one for a son and the other for a daughter. New England furnishes the setting. Ills of the girl's mother brings a dashing young doctor on the scene and the resulting romance brings happiness to all concerned.

Success has attended every performance by the popular Dobinson Players, whose artistic professional work is justly deserving of highest commendation. Mrs. Florence Dobinson has assembled a troupe of players, who have drawn audiences from Glendale and other cities of the southland. All of the favorites of the company are delighting old and new patrons in "Mamma's Affair."

MAP MAKER GIVEN WOMEN'S PRAISE

Federated Clubs' Bulletin Dwells on Glendale Man's Work

J. T. Edwards, F. R. G. S., with studios at 511 San Fernando road, nationally known maker of relief maps, receives recognition in the December edition of Federation News, the official organ of the California Federation of Women's clubs, in the account of the unveiling in San Francisco November 19 of a topographical map of California, installed in the ferry building.

Mrs. John C. Urquhart, president of California Federation, writes in the Federation News: "The unveiling of the great topographical map of California gave to the state the most imposing panoramic picture of itself imaginable; a picture that must from its vastness and sheer beauty thrill the heart of every passerby. The real import of the presentation lies in the statement on the invitation issued by the California Development association, 'The occasion is one of supreme importance in the development of a California consciousness.'

Map's Description

"Seeing the breadth and full length, forest areas, mountain ranges, fertile valleys and majestic sweep of coast line of the state brought within the eye's range, caused tears of appreciation for the mighty empire that is our own and that is capable of the leadership of the west, if the consciousness of California as a whole can only be sensed and made to grow. No north, no south, no east, no west, just California. Let us see our beloved California as a whole and from that point of vantage look out on the world and see it all as a part of the universe."

Mr. Edwards resides at 1213 North Brand boulevard. The Tuesday Afternoon club claims Mrs. Edwards as an active member.

Behymer, will present for the first time "Ishtar," a mystic dance of the Babylonian Aphrodite, the ancient goddess of love, it is announced.

The story of Ishtar is founded upon a poem of ancient Babylon, and like the mystic symbolic creation of Ruth St. Denis, it treats of the great cosmic influences which govern the lives of men, Life, love and the arts are symbolized, Mr. Behymer points out, and the deep spiritual motives permeating everything which emanates from her consciousness are here beautifully united in one of the finest productions she has ever given.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

THE SILENT MAN—
Does not find it necessary to apologize for so many foolish statements.
Is usually given credit for unusual judgment.
Always has to listen to a lot of foolishness.
Seldom has any difficulty in getting a hearing when he does talk.
Has more time to reach safe conclusions.
Does not need to know seven languages.
Is seldom seared by slander's tongue.

PRIVATE RIGHTS AND THE LAW

The lot of the police officer is none too pleasant. He has to make quick decisions sometimes and of late we have had a number of instances of officers making wrong decisions—decisions that they almost proved fatal to innocent citizens.

A Riverside girl is at the point of death as the result of being shot by an immigration officer. The young woman and a male companion were ordered to stop while riding in an automobile near Beaumont. The young man thought the officer a hold-up man, a very natural conclusion, and refused to stop. The official turned his gun on the car, the bullet striking the young woman.

At a football game in Los Angeles an officer attempted to arrest a boy whom he assumed was scalping tickets. The boy attempted to evade the officer, who fired four shots, seriously wounding him.

Officers must have their rights if the law is to be upheld, but that does not imply that innocent people shall be murdered in cold blood.

It is rather poor tactics for an officer or anyone else to try to stop a car at night, for holdups are so frequent that the average citizen may be excused for stepping on the gas when he is accosted by a pedestrian at night. Not so very long ago two young men were driving in this vicinity at night when they had some trouble with their car. They found it necessary to go for help and one of them jumped on the running board of a passing car, intending to ask for a ride to the nearest garage. The driver, thinking he was a holdup man, pulled a gun and shot him dead. The average citizen has no business carrying firearms, and yet when crime is so prevalent it almost seems that he should be excused for attempting to protect himself.

SPARE OUR TRADITIONS

One by one our legends and traditions are being destroyed. Someone is always finding out that stories of historical romance which we cherish have no foundation of fact and are but myths. But we accord these iconoclasts no consideration whatever, which is their just due. Some people can get into the public eye in no other way than by tearing down something which is vital to us.

A short time ago a Spanish duke came to this country and told us that the story of Queen Isabella selling her jewels to finance Christopher Columbus on the voyage on which he discovered America is untrue. This little incident is said to have happened a good many years ago, and we believe we know as much about it as the Duke of Alba. At any rate, we are going to go on believing it, and our belief is not going to harm us a bit.

Now a Princeton professor says the story of the Liberty bell being rung to celebrate the Declaration of Independence is a myth. He says the declaration was adopted July 2, the preamble on July 4, and all without celebration in Philadelphia or any other place. The declaration was not signed at all until August 2 and the completion of the signatures not effected until January 18, 1777. He declares the false legend about the bell was not started until seventy-five years later.

All of which makes not the least difference to us. We will continue to revere the old bell and believe it a symbol of our liberties. We will continue to celebrate the 4th of July. Those who would destroy our traditions and make us a nation without imagination or patriotism are not at all the public benefactors they think themselves, no matter how careful their research or how accurate they may think their findings.

COST OF LIVING LOWERED

Among the most useless persons in the world are those who compile and give out figures as to how little the working girl needs to spend for the necessities of life, how much the average person needs to feed and clothe himself, and like statistics, Some people spend a great deal, others know from experience that they can get along on very little. The average person lives as well as he can and these figures mean nothing in his life.

The United States Chamber of Commerce has just issued some highly significant figures showing the average cost of living expenses for one year for the average American, as follows:

For food	$97.58
For clothing	48.03
For light and fuel	20.92

According to these figures, we have been mistaken in thinking the cost of living is high. A great many people would like to know where they can get board for $1.88 a week. Also it is evident from this table that the United States Chamber of Commerce has never tried to keep a growing boy in shoes. The figures given for light and fuel must have been compiled in California, for, with coal hovering around $20 a ton, a family of five in the east would have to sit in the dark if they were limited to $104.60 for light and fuel.

No doubt there are a great many families in the country, especially in the congested and foreign sections of our cities, who spend less than the figures given, but even then they can scarcely represent the average.

UNCLE SAM'S GENEROSITY

Uncle Sam has the reputation among foreign countries of worshiping the almighty dollar. Be that as it may, he is not so ungenerous, not so much of a rascal after all. It will be remembered that a generation ago, at the time of the Boxer uprising in China, the United States won indemnity. Instead of hoarding this money we set it aside as a trust fund for the education of Chinese in American institutions.

And now the same course is being pursued with the $100,000 which the United States imposed as a funeral fund for Vice Consul Imbrie, who was murdered in Persia. Persia accepted our conditions and now Uncle Sam suggests that instead of sending this check to Washington it be made a trust fund for the education of Persian youth in the United States.

At that, Uncle Sam is not entirely unselfish and philanthropic in this matter, for he knows the money involved in this indemnity will pay bigger returns in planting the liberal ideas of America in the nations of the east than in any other way.

Doctor friend, who is a radio fan, has a new loud speaker—it's a boy.

ANOTHER SUN!

Spirit Plays

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The announcement is out that a play dictated by the spirit of Oscar Wilde to some responsible medium is to be produced in the United States this winter.

It is asserted that Mr. Wilde dictated passage after passage at terrific speed and the medium redictated to a stenographer.

We have not seen this posthumous play of Mr. Wilde's, but in all probability it will be poor. Somehow or other, almost all the famous persons who have come back from the spirit world and dictated things through mediums have fallen off tremendously in their creative genius. We have had articles from Mark Twain, Elbert Hubbard and famous men of long ago, back to Julius Caesar.

These men, while they seemed to be pretty good when they were living, have fallen into a mode of living in the vale beyond which evidently tells on their creative ability. They do not seem to do as well through mediums as they did in the flesh.

Having had no experience in the spirit life of the beyond, it is impossible to say how these worthies are living. But whatever way it is, it is not doing them much good, from a productive point of view. We are very much afraid that there is some mistake in the transmission, or the whole matter is plain fraud.

Those who indict correspondence from the spirit world seem to dodge intelligent and scientific proof. Their whole work must be done some way in the dark and call for more faith than the average reader is able to supply.

In the matter of publishing a writing there is but one test, that is, ability and worth, and this test applies quite as well to those who dictate from the spirit world as to those who write in this.

There is no way to avoid this test that we know of. There is no way to get credit for fine writing in this world except to find people who will pay for it and, as a rule, spirit-dictated messages are hardly worth the price that such messages were worth when dictated in the flesh.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as a fortunate day, for Neptune in benefic aspect dominates. Mars also is friendly; late in the evening Uranus is adverse.

There are vibrations that incline to activity, but to excess or extravagance today.

This should be a lucky rule under which to deal in oil and certain minerals, but speculation should be avoided.

While this configuration prevails conservative action should be the rule and by wise forethought much constructive work should be accomplished.

Engineers and builders should benefit at this time, for there is to be unexpected need of their brains and experience.

This is held to be an auspicious day for starting on ocean voyages, making for safety and real enjoyment.

While this day may be made fortunate in its doings the evening will be a difficult time for any business conferences or social converse, since Uranus is in sinister sway.

It is not a favorable direction of the stars for the first meetings with persons of opposite sex, although the influences may seem to encourage flirtation.

What may be a severe earthquake or extraordinary convulsion of nature is to be expected within a short time, if the stars are read aright.

Saturday was always held to be a day of special good fortune to women, but this is not to be accepted as one of the lucky times. The evening is most unfavorable to romance.

Women are warned that the stars indicate disappointment and suffering through love affairs, for liberty is to bring many grave regrets.

The thirty-first year of women and the forty-second year of men is supposed to be marked by unusual events. Those who come to these mile posts in 1924 have the forecast of startling and pleasant experiences.

Persons whose birth date it is have the augury of rather a quiet year. Travel and change are indicated, but they will bring pleasant days of life.

Children born on this day probably will be wonderfully fortunate in all their undertakings. These subjects of Sagittarius should be of fine nature, magnetic and kind.

Do You Know

When Jenny Lind first came to this country she found our ordinary railway coaches so uncomfortable that she requested a change and compliance with this resulted in the beginning of our present parlor cars.

August is the period of greatest heat, scientists say, because the influence of the sun's rays have then been felt for a long time on the earth and the wind from the north becomes milder due to a moderation of temperature in the polar circle caused by the thawing of the ice.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

ABOUT FRIENDSHIP

Confucius opined: "To contract ties of friendship with anyone is to contract friendship with his virtue. There ought not to be any other motive in friendship."

But men wish us to contract friendship with their vice also. It is not enough to overlook their faults; no, we must approve or excuse them. For friendship's sake, we must see to be right that which we know to be wrong.

"True friendship can afford true knowledge," said Henry Thoreau. It does not depend on darkness and ignorance. If I can see my friend's virtues more distinctly than another's, his faults, too, are made more conspicuous by contrast. We have not so good a right to hate any as our friend.

"Faults are not the less faults because they are invariably balanced by corresponding virtues, and for a fault there is no excuse, though it may appear greater than it is in many ways.

"I have never known one who could bear criticism, who could not be flattered, who would not bribe his judge, or was content that the truth should be loved always better than himself."

* * * *

It is impossible to say all that we think, even to our truest friend.

No matter how well two persons understand each other, the exposure by one of a serious fault in the other, will produce a misunderstanding.

* * * *

What is commonly honored with the name of friendship is, it seemed to Thoreau, no very profound or powerful instinct.

"Men do not, after all love their friends greatly. I do not see men made seers and wise to the verge of insanity by their friendship for one another. They are not often transfigured and translated by love in each other's presence. I do not observe them purfied, refined and elevated by the love of man."

If one abates a little the price of his coal or groceries or clothing, or whatever it is he sells, or gives his neighbor his vote, or takes him automobile riding frequently, it is esteemed a rare instance of friendship.

Surely true friendship is something greater than this.

* * * *

To say that a man is your friend means commonly no more than this, that he is not your enemy, opined Thoreau.

Today's Poem

HAUNTED HOUSE

Here was a place where none would ever come
For shelter, save as we did from the rain.
We saw no ghost, yet once outside again,
Each wondered why the other should be dumb;
For we had fronted nothing worse than gloom
And ruin, and to our vision it was plain
Where thrift, outshivering fear, had let remain
Some chairs that were like skeletons of home.

There were no trackless footsteps on the floor
Above us, and there were no sounds elsewhere.
But there was more than sound and there was more
Than just an axe that once was in the air
Between us and the chimney, long before
Our time. So townsmen said who found her there.
—Edwin Arlington Robinson.

Smiles

THE NEIGHBORS

Casey had been married only a week when he discovered that his wife, who had assumed control of the household and larder, was inclined to be stingy.

He had been working in his small garden one afternoon when the wife came to the back door and called out in stentorian tones:

"Terrence, come in to tay, toast an' foive eggs."

Terrence dropped his spade in astonishment and ran into the kitchen.

"Say, you're only kiddin' me," he said.

"No, Terrence," said the wife, "it's not ye, it's the neighbors I'm kiddin'."

NOT BAD

A Londoner was coming out of the gate after viewing his first baseball game, when he was stopped by a newsboy. The American scoreboard had recorded that both teams had made a run in the first inning and hadn't scored since.

"Say, Mister, what's the score?" cried the newsy.

"Really, I don't know?" came the reply. "But it was some place up in the millions when I left.

LOCAL REALTY BOARD IN DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERS

REALTY BOARD ACTION IS EXPLAINED

Everett A. White, President Of State Association, Issues Statement

By EVERETT A. WHITE
President of the California Real Estate Association.

The issue involved in the statement of withdrawal from the state association given out by the Los Angeles Realty board is the right of group expression by large compact bodies of real estate brokers perating within the city limits of Los Angeles. The matter hinges upon the Southwest Realty board of Los Angeles status in the state association.

The problem of meeting the wishes of the brokers for organization has been ever before the state officers. Today we have ninety-nine real estate boards in California, and the Honolulu realty board is our hundredth board.

The local board's announcement comes as no surprise to me. For at the meeting of the board of directors of the National association of real estate boards in Columbus, Ohio, October 30, that body adopted unanimously a resolution providing for general member and district member boards in cities of over 500,000. This provided for the rights of San Pedro, Lankershim, and Van Nuys, annexed boards, and they will thus become subject to the Los Angeles board only as to rules of conduct and code of ethics.

The New York state association was present also in behalf of this

INCOME TAXES SHOW GAINS ARE LARGE

Increases In Population In Southland Revealed by Returns Filed

Checking the number of individual income returns filed in the Southern California District in 1924 was completed today and sent to Washington as a special report by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell. These returns cover the calendar year 1923, and evidence the fact that every county in the sixth California collection district continues to show a substantial increase in the number of returns filed and a consequent growth in population.

In 1922 only 165,338 individual returns were filed in the district as a whole and in 1923 the total number was 221,020, while in 1924 there were 263,078 income returns registered in the ten southern counties. Corporation, partnership and fiduciary returns are not included in the figures given. With these added the total number of returns filed was 189,840 for 1922; for the same period of 1923 there were 240,279 returns filed, as against 285,375 individual returns during 1924, a gain of 45,096.

In Los Angeles county alone 206,157 individual returns were filed, as against 176,433 for 1923, an increase of over 16 per cent.

San Diego county led all counties in the district with an increase of 46.3 per cent, while Orange county recorded a gain of 36.2 per cent, San Luis Obispo

Educational Class to Open Tuesday Eve

Formation of a class in the real estate educational course outlined by the University of Southern California, will take place at a special meeting of Glendale realtors at the Harvard High school auditorium next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. The organization of the local class will be under the supervision of the educational committee of the Glendale Realty board of which D. C. Casellman is chairman and George D. McDill and W. S. Kirk are members.

All members of the Glendale board, active and associate, are urged to attend the meeting by Chairman Casellman, as registrations will be taken and the work organized. Certificates will be issued by the University of California to all realtors who satisfactorily complete the course.

Natural Bridge to Be Made Public Park Site

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 6.—Natural Bridge, a great rock arch on the dividing ridge between Wolfe and Powell counties, in the Red River valley, in Eastern Kentucky, is favored by Dr. Willard R. Jillson, state geologist and chairman of the state park commission as a state park site. The commission will recommend a number of sites of natural beauty to the 1926 legislature.

Natural Bridge is of outstanding importance because of its size and accessibility. In an air line, it is about six miles northwest of the town of Compton and nineteen miles northeast of Irvine, the center of the Estill oil fields. The bridge is within a few hours' ride of the populous Bluegrass district, whose good roads and well known country places attracts many tourists.

Kansas City Building Falls Short Last Year

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 6.—The Minnesota Western Railway Electric line has begun operation of a fleet of motor buses on four highway routes in Western Minnesota and South Dakota in an effort to combat bus line competition.

Glendale Is Among Southland Leaders In Building Totals

During the month of November, 1924, forty-eight cities in the Pacific southwest, including Los Angeles, issued building permits with an estimated valuation of $18,907,244, as compared with $26,497,643 for the same month last year. During October, 1924, forty-seven cities reported building operations aggregating $20,763,447.

For November, 1924, forty-seven cities outside Los Angeles reported building permits issued with an estimated valuation of $9,156,148, as compared with $12,985,601 for the same month a year ago. For October, 1924, forty-five cities outside Los Angeles reported a total of $8,706,170.

Following is the record (Los Angeles included) by months for 1924 and 1923:

	Cities	1924	1923
January	46	$24,620,020	$20,170,363

Totals		$249,895,415	$302,509,878

Of the forty-eight cities reporting for November, 1924, eighteen show a gain compared with the same month last year. These gains are chiefly in the smaller cities and towns. San Diego, with a gain of nearly $300,000, leads the list of cities outside Los Angeles, and Pasadena is second with a total $600,000 less than for November, 1923. These two are the only cities reporting more than a million dollars' worth of building for the month. Long Beach, which shows a loss of nearly $1,400,000, is third, and San Bernardino, with a gain of more than 200 per cent, is fourth.

Following are the cities reporting to Southwest Builder and Contractor with their totals for November, 1924, and for the same month last year:

Sad News For 1924 Rushing To Southland

Two million income tax blanks for reporting 1924 incomes are speeding toward Los Angeles in a special freight car and, according to advices received by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell, should arrive by Christmas.

Preparations are already being made to send out these blanks and every income taxpayer of record in Southern California will receive a blank early in January. Income tax payments on income earned during 1924 will be made under the new revenue act which provides for sweeping reductions in tax rates. Under the old law every married man whose net income was $2000 or more was required to file a return, while under the act of 1924 unless a married man had a net income of $2,500 or more he is not required to file a return. In the case of single persons a return must be filed if the net income was $1000 or more.

Collector Goodcell said that, owing to the many changes in the law under which returns on 1924 income must be led, he was preparing a statement for the guidance of taxpayers that would be given to the public prior to the mailing out o fthe returns.

INTENSIVE CAMPAIGN IS PLANNED FOR NEXT WEEK

All Brokers and Salesmen Not Belonging to Association Will Be Induced to Join; Aided by National Organization

Announcement was made today at the headquarters of the Glendale Realty board that plans were perfected by which the local organization would inaugurate on Monday an intensive campaign of one week to include in their ranks all ethical brokers and to augment their associate memberships by adding many salesmen.

The local drive is part of a statewide movement, which has the endorsement of the state and national organization and which will, it is believed, considerably increase the opportunity for development of the communities of California through the board of realtors.

President W. L. Twining of the local board has received a letter from President Everett A. White of the California Real Estate association, promising the assistance of the state organization in the drive. President H. R. Ennis of the National association of Real Estate boards has written from the east conveying to the Glendale board the desire of the national association to see this city take its rightful place as a leader in realty organization in the fastest growing state in the nation.

"Every man owes a part of his time to the upbuilding of the industry or profession to which he belongs," Theodore Roosevelt said, and this message is playing a big part in causing the established real estate brokers and salesmen to become affiliated with the great organization of realtors," President Twining said.

Northwest's Holiday Trade Best In Years

ST. PAUL, Dec. 6.—Holiday trade in the northwest will be the heaviest in years according to Twin Cities merchants who already are ordering fill-ins in some lines from eastern manufacturers. Buying in the agricultural districts still is conservative but is of large volume. Jobbers feel that as a result of farmer prosperity sales in some lines will exceed those of last year from 10 to 15 per cent.

EXPLAINS ACTION OF REALTY BOARD

amendment and Brooklyn, Jamaica and Staten Island boards, within that great city would become district boards of realtors.

As a solution for the bigger problem of boards formed or forming within the confines of one city, the national board of directors suggested to the general member board a modification of the one board rule to admit the Southwest Realty board as a divisional board. This would give the Southwest board the right to the word realtor subject to the rules and regulations of the local board.

Last August the Los Angeles board announced to the state association that its offer to the Southwest board to become a division of the Los Angeles board had expired through failure of the Southwest board to accept the terms.

Application Approved

The problem has been before the state association for two years. We have tried earnestly to conserve the ends of justice. Before the Southwest board was admitted to our organization, their application, defining their territory was submitted to the Los Angeles board, and was before that board from June until September. In October, 1922, the Southwest realty board of Los Angeles was unanimously elected to state membership after we had received the letter of the Los Angeles realty board of governors "heartily approving the application of the Southwest Realty board."

The Southwest Realty board is second only to the Los Angeles Realty board in state association membership.

In the northwest section last Tuesday night a large group of real estate brokers met for the purpose of organization, desiring the multiple listing system of the Southwest board, and the right of expression. In the northeast section of the city, over a year ago the Northeast Realty board was formed with over 200 members.

The state association officers counseled these two groups to affiliate with the Los Angeles realty board.

In the West Hollywood section is the West Hollywood board of realtors with a membership of nearly 100 brokers.

Membership Large

The California Real Estate association was founded in 1905 and was the only state association represented at the birth of the national association in Chicago in 1908. It is now the largest of the state realty associations, and will still be by a large margin the largest, even with the withdrawal of one of its member boards. It is the sponsor to the national association of the largest number of realtors. There are eighty-eight California national boards with a membership of realtors of nearly 4000, and this represents one realtor out of every six in the United States.

The Los Angeles Realty board withdrew from the state association in 1915, and did not reaffiliates as a 100 per cent board until July 1 of this year. However, one-fourth of its membership at that time held individual state memberships.

The withdrawal of the Los Angeles board today will in no way effect the material progress of the California Real Estate association. We regret it sincerely, of course, for every member of the Los Angeles Realty board is a fine realtor, and the only difference that has arisen so far as I can see is a desire held by a few that the state association should expel the Southwest Realty board of Los Angeles in order to adhere to the one board rule. This our state convention has twice refused to do.

Right of Expression

The state association nor any of its officers has ever agreed to object to any board to conform to a retroactive policy. But our association has repeatedly reaffirmed its belief in the one board policy so far as that is consistent with the growth of the commonwealth of California.

The state association has conformed to the general policy of all organizations—the right of expression, and we have not sought the organization of more than one board in this city or in any other city. We have been forced to accept the conditions as the group presented themselves.

Certainly I favor one board to a city where that board renders a service to all of the city. We have taken the board viewpoint of the greatest good to the greatest number and can show by our membership records that within four years we have increased our state membership fifty times or more than 5000 per cent.

No Dissenting Vote

At the recent Pasadena convention nearly 2000 brokers and their wives attended. The program contained a large preponderance of members of the Los Angeles Realty board. The president of the Los Angeles board was general chairman of the committee.

At that convention the application of the Southwest Realty board for national membership was affirmed without a dissenting vote being recorded. Officers of the local board here participated in that meeting.

The Pasadena convention also declared for modification of the one board rule in cities of over 500,000 under certain conditions. The important change was to eliminate the word "geographical." This elimination was construed to mean that the southwest board not serving a distinct political subdivision or separate community within the city of Los Angeles could not be recognized as a district board.

The California Real Estate association sponsored the real estate license law and all amendments that have been adopted.

Association Record

It has taken over the statewide education of the brokers and salesmen in cooperation with the University of Southern California and the University of California. It has a definite program for meeting the taxation problem. It has launched again a statewide Own Your Own Home, Build and Build Now Campaign, calling upon its 100 member boards for cooperation.

It has launched the "back to the farm" slogan. It is helping in bringing industries for cities to the front. It is sponsoring laws helpful to real property and opposing legislation detrimental to real estate.

I feel certain that the membership problem will be solved satisfactorily to all concerned at the annual meeting of the national association of real seate boards in Dallas next January. Time heals all problems. We have only the greatest love and admiration for all the members of the Los Angeles Realty board, and are looking forward to the very near day when this great problem will be solved, and the day of solution will be the scene of the largest convention, and the greatest reunion and foregathering of realtors that the world has ever seen.

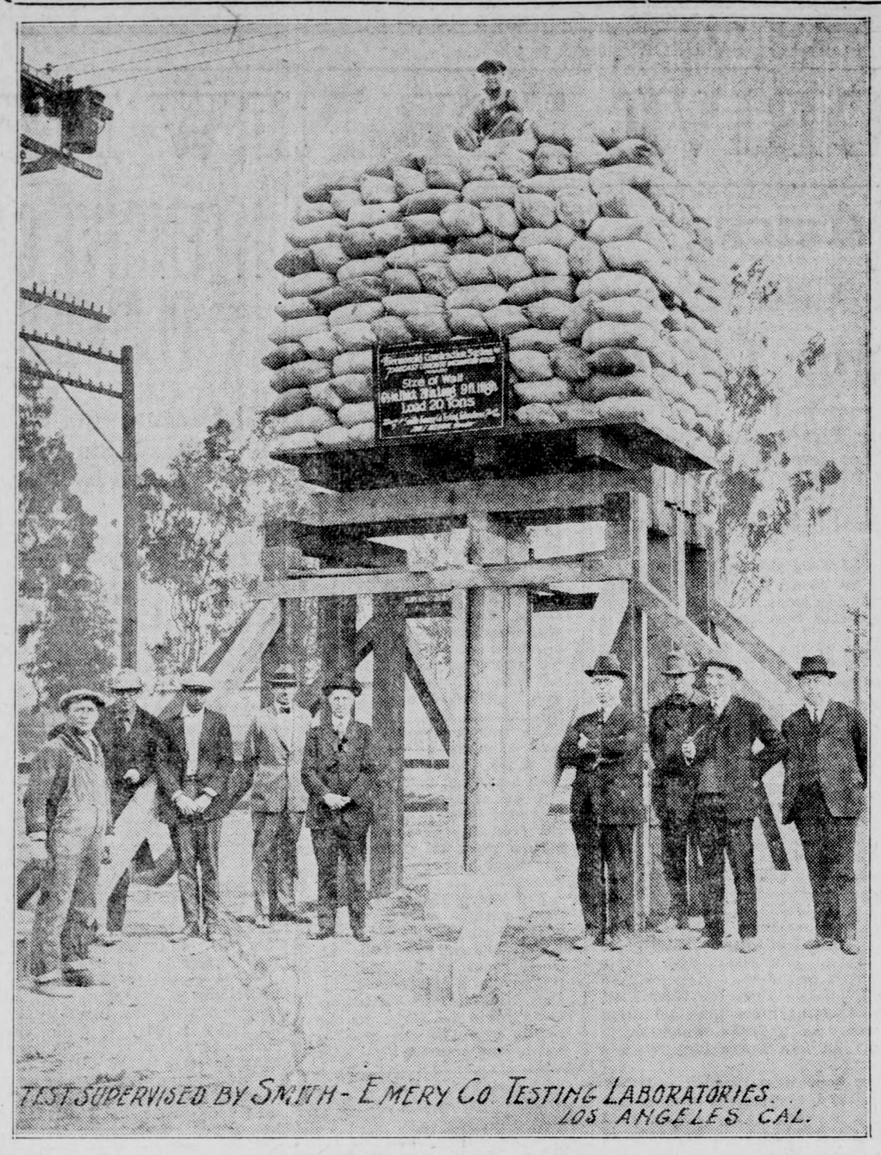
Withstands Severe Test

Section of precast concrete wall, manufactured by THERMOSOID CONSTRUCTION CO., at their plant at San Fernando road and Colorado street, held up under 40,000 pounds, as shown in the photograph. Officials of the company and newspapermen who witnessed the test are grouped about the device used.



The Thermosoid Construction system, having executive offices at 1217 Detwiler building, Los Angeles, has just completed the first unit of their plant to manufacture precast concrete vacuumized walls on their five-acre site at San Fernando road and Colorado boulevard.

According to Edward F. Needham, head of the organization, the Thermosoid system of erecting concrete homes will revolutionize residential construction due to the many ways of cutting costs to the minimum. The home builder will be assured of a practically fireproof home at a cost no greater than frame construction, the thermos bottle idea assuring a moisture proof and sound-proof house, with a lessened fire risk and lower insurance, he said.

Mr. Needham, the inventor, has been identified with some of the largest undertakings of the United States government, having been general concrete superintendent of the $150,000,000 powder plant built at Nashville, Tenn., during the war. He also built concrete viaducts, bridges, dams, tunnels and buildings of all kinds and enjoys a national reputation.

The equipment of the Thermosoid plant for the present consists of a central building, a complete plant for mill and frame work, with provision for three additional units with a capacity of four houses per unit per week. Present plans contemplate the erection of subsidiary plants in other Pacific coast cities at an early date. In discussing the great field and growing need in Southern California of a different type of construction, Mr. Needham said:

"The use of reinforced concrete in the building of skyscrapers, warehouses, and public buildings as well as tunnels, dams, viaducts and bridges is well known. Concrete is strong, fireproof, stormproof, earthquake-proof, and everlasting. Maintenance charges on concrete structures are negligible.

"Truly it seems an ideal building material for the construction of homes, yet until the Thermosoid System was perfected its use for home-building purposes was extremely limited. Why? Because the cost involved in the usual method of 'pouring concrete' is high. Concrete homes have been too expensive for the home-builders of moderate or even comfortable means. Only a fortunate few of the very rich could afford to build them.

"In our factory where the Thermosoid System is being manufactured we are installing a mill, and every stick of lumber will be cut to length to fit each job; not only will this expedite the erection of the building, but will net a great saving in lumber."

Tests were made this week with a section of wall of Thermosoid 6½ inches thick, 28 inches wide and nine feet high, holding up a load of 40,000 pounds. The test was made by the Smith-Emery laboratory, Los Angeles, who were recommended, among others, by J. C. Pearson, bureau of standards, United States Department of Commerce, Washington. These tests will be continued every day next week for public inspection, engineers and builders being especially invited. H. A. Wadsworth, an official of the Portland Cement association, was a witness to the test.

Find Finances Of Farmer In State Strong

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—Despite drought and crops which fell below normal, California farmers in general are in a better financial condition today than ever before, according to a survey just completed by the state agricultural officials. Their tabulation of the output of agricultural products shows that while farms produced a smaller volume, prices were such as to yield a better return. For example while the state grape yield this season was 1,445,000 tons as compared with 1,690,000 tons last year, growers received $109,568,000 as compared with $94,550,000 in 1923.

PLAN MOVE TO LOWER COST OF RULING

Taxation Committee, State Realty Association to Conduct Survey

The annual cost of government in the United States for local, state and national purposes is about $8,000,000,000, or $70 per capita, according to the taxation committee of the California Real Estate association. This means $350 per year for a family of five, and the average income of such a family, says the association, is estimated to be about $1100. Thus nearly one-third of the family income goes to support the government of the city, the county, the state and the nation.

It is the plan of the taxation committee of the realtors to ascertain means for checking the alarming growth of governmental cost upon the property owners of the state.

The California realtors' taxation committee has received a report on the recent national tax association meeting at St. Louis, and finds that the problems discussed there were almost the same as caused the call for the first tax conference 17 years ago. These problems are: Tremendous increase in governmental expenditures; need for finding relief for real estate owners who directly pay more than 75 per cent of all the taxes; and the fact that special taxes were, as soon as collected, swallowed up by new functions of government.

Educational Needs

The conference considered the increasing appropriations for educational purposes and the related question of the obligation of the state and community to furnish more than a common school education.

It was brought out at the St. Louis conference that national expense is decreasing, and that state expenses throughout the nation are increasing slightly, but city and county expenditures are increasing very rapidly.

All People Pay

Summarizing the situation, Edward P. Doyle, manager of the bureau of information and research for the Real Estate board of New York City finds: Tremendous special taxes have been levied which ultimately fall on all people whether they own real estate or not; yet these have not lessened the burden of the real property owner. New functions of government immediately devour the new levies.

Some progress was reported toward uniform methods of taxation in all the states and in uniform systems of reports by state commissions but it was found that virtually nothing has been done toward solving the problems of 1907.

This conference consisting of delegates appointed by the governors of all the states, the representatives of universities, and the presidents of state accounting associations, is a very representative one. Others who attended included tax specialists, state tax commissioners counsel, tax experts for the great corporations.

Statewide Survey

The California Real Estate association made up of more than 3000 real estate firms, is a statewide institution. Its members are representatives of property owners, and as such representatives, have resolved to make a study of the big tax problem in California.

In making this survey, Pres. Everett A. White of the state association, has instructed the taxation committee to compile the surveys of taxation in other states, and to call upon all local and state authorities for information, assistance and counsel. A report of the work of the committee on taxation will be made to the board of directors at their meeting in Fresno, January 24, and it is being considered to call a state taxation conference under auspices of the realtors.

Farm Product Values Climb In Past Year

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Estimates of the American farm bureau federation place the value of American farm products this year at $10,000,000,000 or $3,800,000,000 more than the low year of 1922 and $4,000,000,000 less than the high reached in 1920. The estimates indicate farmers in the wheat belt from Kansas to Montana will have about 25 per cent more income and those of the cotton belt about 5 per cent more this year than last. On the Pacific coast the income is estimated to be 10 per cent less, with the rest of the country having approximately the same return as in 1923.

ANGELO ART WILL GRACE MEMORIAL

Duplicate of Italy's Noted Sculptor's 'Moses' to Be at Forest Lawn

That the full sized reproduction of Michael Angelo's "Moses" which is now being made by sculptors in Italian studios shall reproduce faithfully the great master's work, the huge block of Carrara marble from which the statue is being carved has been procured from precisely the same quarry as was the block from which the master made his original statue, according to Hubert L. Eaton, chairman of the advisory board of Forest Lawn Memorial Park, where the work is to be placed.

In a letter in which Professor Armando Vene, chief architect to the Ministry of Arts at Rome, Italy, describes the process of the work now being done under his supervision, an intimate description is given of the difficulties experienced by Michael Angelo in shaping his original work. The sculptor, being commissioned to create a colossal statue of Moses which was by the order of Pope Julius the Second to be placed together with that of the other prophets on the upper part of the monument of that pope in the Church of St. Peter in Vinculis in Rome, proceeded to Carrara in search of suitable marble for his future work from the marble quarries situated in that vicinity.

Because of the lost favor of the pope and years of political strife in Italy when Michael Angelo was forced to seek refuge and patronage in Florence, this journey to Carrara was without results but was repeated shortly after 1513 when the marble for the original work was selected at Serravezza near Carrara which is the quarry from which the marble block for the Moses being reproduced for Los Angeles has come.

Renaissance Best Work

Again the intrigues of his enemies defeated orders for the artist to continue with the work for which he had undergone considerable dangers and labor in the securing of proper marble and it was not until after 1525 that an agreement was signed for the completion of what is perhaps the greatest work of the renaissance, by various interested parties and Michael Angelo who had to deposit $1400 (scudi) as security for the performance of the contract. It is said that the sculptor was so impressed with the results of his labor that when completed he struck the statue on the knee exclaiming, "Speak, why dost thou not speak?"

"Surely," writes Professor Vene, stirred by this work of art and the progress of its copy which is to enrich the art treasurers of Southern California, "no form of art is more perfect than this statue in which Michael Angelo has achieved the supreme heights of vital reproduction, power, vigor, and expression, the prophet's attitude bespeaking a perfect figure of liberty, wisdom and dominance."

gage the attention of a self-governing people. There will be some plain speaking on this occasion and all Glendale should hear it," he continued.

Discuss Problems

"In addition to the club membership, local members of the state and county committees and of the sixty-first assembly district club are invited to take part in the meeting. This is an attempt on the part of the Glendale Republican club to bring the problems of government to the attention of the local public and particularly to give them opportunity to discuss matters of legislation with their immediate representatives.

"The next session of the legislature will convene Monday, January 5, and this will be the last opportunity for such a conference. The committee on legislation will be appointed on Monday, so that it will be functioning by the time of this meeting. Other committees will be named at the meeting."

Dispute Results From Refunding Loan Plans

New York last night, declared that France intended to pay the United States every cent she owed, but he made no reference to France's other obligations.

Jusserand's remarks anent the debt situation constituted a plea for easy terms. It is the same plea he has been making in the conversations with Secretary Mellon.

In response to the outburst in the British press over the possibility of the United States granting any easier terms to France than were accorded to Great Britain, officials here privately are of the opinion that there will be very little difference in the terms in the final analysis.

In the first place, it is recognized that Congress would likely balk at ratification of any agreement containing more liberal terms than are contained in the British agreement.

No Cut In Interest

The principal concession to France discussed thus far is that of a moratorium for a stated terms of years before payment begins.

It is wholly unlikely, however, that this government will grant to France, in any event, any lesser interest rates than is contained in the British settlement.

On that there is general agreement among administration officials and congressional leaders.

Rain Over Southland Proves of Much Good

fornia today, following a generous downpour last night, weather bureau officials announced the storm was probably over.

Rain spread over a wide area of the southern part of the state and brought huge benefits, according to the officials. Close to three-quarters of an inch of rain was reported at many points.

In Los Angeles figures for the storm showed .65 of an inch compared with 2.42 inches for the season to date, .69 last year and 2.66 normal for forty years.

The storm brought rainfall at various parts as follows:

Anaheim .56; Bakersfield .28; Chino .39; Compton .50; Covina 76; Glendale .82; Pasadena .68; Santa Barbara .22; San Pedro .65; San Fernando .56; Venice .72; San Bernardino .47; Redlands .47; San Diego .36; Monrovia .91.

Some Washouts

While the rain did inestimable benefit to the parched land, the gales that blew outside the harbor severely buffeted shipping and several vessels were obliged to cancel sailings and remain safely behind the San Pedro breakwater.

In Glendale, some slight damage was done by washouts. Mrs. L. E. Kellogg of 2010 Glenwood road drove her car into a washout on San Fernando road and Elm avenue, early this morning, and smashed it, according to a report filed at Glendale police headquarters. She was unhurt.

Last night's rain occasioned another washout on San Fernando road at Western avenue, the police report.

the diplomatic corps turn out in full regalia. It is a state occasion. It is a getting together of the government in all three of its constitutional branches—the executive, the legislative and the judiciary. It is far more significant than the opening of the parliament by the King of England. The ermine and purple robes are lacking in this country, but the spectacle is nevertheless impressive.

Coolidge No Speaker

President Coolidge has let it be known that he reserves the right to address the new Congress when it meets in regular or extra session and the chances of an extra session seems to grow hourly. Mr. Coolidge has no flare for oratory or oratorical effect. His addressses, read from manuscript, are delivered in a calm even tone and marked with a decided New England accent, which, while seeming to grate a bit upon the ears at first, soon takes on a more melodious strain and is lost completely by the audience. Mr. Coolidge is not fond of speechmaking. Both President Wilson and Harding were:

Nevertheless the chances are that Mr. Coolidge's advisers will prevail upon him to address Congress next time. An address by the President this week would have been broadcast to the far corners of the country. This in itself would have been an asset in winning public attention and approval which may not be overlooked again.

After being out two hours, the jury in the case of J. C. Calhoun rendered a verdict of not guilty at 8 o'clock last night. The trial was held before Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court. PLANS UNDERWAY FOR NEW THEATRE

To Have Permanent Home For Dobinson Players In Near Future

Negotiations are under way to erect a large theatre building on a close-in location, as a permanent home for the Dobinson Players, according to information reaching The Glendale Evening News. Two different groups are considering deals by which these players, who have proven their popularity at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, will become a fixture in the theatrical enterprise of this city.

It is understod that the merit of the Dobinson Players and their cordial reception by the people of Glendale has induced local capital to become interested in guaranteeing their future here by providing them with a home of their own.

Each of the sites under consideration is said to be ideally situated for a stock company theatre. While negotiations are well under way, no decision has yet been made by the players as to which offer they will accept.

Unique Opportunity

Those who have followed the history of dramatic productions in Glendale feel htat this city offers a unique opportunity for the lasting success of a good stock company. Hollywood has the distraction of motion pictures; Pasadena is not as ideally situated with regard to Los Angeles. Glendale, of the three large metropolitan communities in this section, seems best adapted to stock.

This is not only the judgment of those who have made the matter their study, it is argued by those behind the movement to finance the Dobinson Players into a home of their own, but it is also the verdict of Glendale theatregoers, who liberally support dramatic offerings.

It is believed that an announcement of more than passing significance will be made in this connection in the near future.

Two-hour flights between Europe and America at an altitude of ten miles, are forecast by S. Lindquist, a well known Swedish airplane constructor.

The Wrath To Come

CHAPTER XXXVIII

The door was stealthily opened. A hand flashed out and caught her by the wrist. She felt herself being dragged into the room. And then pandemonium. The sudden opening of the door showed her what had happened. Grant, lounging on his bunk, covered by Von Diss's weapon, took advantage of that sudden turn to make the spring which he had been contemplating for some time. Von Diss's right arm was knocked up by a cruel undercut; one barrel of the pistol went off harmlessly into the wall. With the other hand, Grant struck him on the side of the head. He collapsed with barely a groan, half on the floor and half on the sofa. Grant stooped and picked up the pistol.

"Bless you, my child!" he said to Susan, who was standing, amazed but unshaken, on the threshold.

"What does it all mean?" she demanded wonderingly.

"Oh, we asked for trouble, all right," he admitted. "We're abductors, pirates, whatever you like. I don't blame these chaps for not taking it lying down. But I think they might have put up a better class fight. Now let's get on deck. I want to find out who the mischief gave orders to start the engine."

"What about him?" she asked, pointing to the floor where Von Diss lay moaning and half unconscious.

"I'll send a steward down," Grant promised. "He's got lots of nerve, I will say that for him. He got me covered and his hand was like a rock. He'd have shot me all right if I'd moved. He made the mistake of his life when he took his eyes off me to pull you in. Now we'll have to see about these engines."

She slipped her arm through his. They made their way through the deserted saloon, up the companionway, and out on to the weather side of the deck. A young officer came along, smoking a cigarette. He saluted as Grant spoke to him.

"Who's on the bridge, Simpson?"

"Fosbrooke, sir. It's my relief but he preferred to go on for another hour. Said he had some special orders."

"What's our course?"

"Almost due north, sir," the youth answered. "We shall fetch Monaco in about two hours."

Grant nodded and walked forward to the steps leading to the bridge. The lookout man stood behind the white canvas. A solitary figure was pacing back and forth.

"Stay here," Grant whispered. "There's probably some one else lurking about to see this fellow isn't interfered with."

"Not I!" she insisted. "I'm coming up with you. You haven't another pistol, have you?"

"No, but you can have this one," he answered, pushing it into her hand. "They won't suspect your having one and I'm pretty useful with my fists. Got it? Good! Now, go around the other side and tell Gertrude to look after her husband. See what's doing, and then come forward. I can't think of what's become of Martin and the chief engineer."

She nodded and glided away through the darkness. Her slippered feet were noiseless upon the deck, and in her black gown she was almost invisible. There was no sign of any unauthorized person upon the bridge. The words of stern enquiry were already framed upon his lips. Then, just as he stood on the last step, something swung out from behind the canvas protection. He felt a crashing blow on the side of his head, a sudden sensation of fury, followed by one of darkness. He fell down the steps and collapsed on the deck below. Cornelius Blunn, an ugly block of wood still in his hand, peered over and looked at him.

"A pity," he muttered. "I hate violence."

The seaman had turned round from his shelter on the bridge. He glanced anxiously towards the officer in charge.

"What's going on here, sir?" he asked.

"Only one of the commander's guests run amuck," was the answer. "Had too much to drink and wanted to come and sail the ship. Get back to your post, Burgess."

The man looked uneasily below. He was not at all satisfied.

"Seems to me they've treated him a bit roughly, sir," he said.

THE GATEWAY

Abe Potash and Mawruss Perlmutter build a motion picture studio upon the principle that everybody nowadays has two businesses—their regular business and the moving picture business. They begin to cast their second blood and thunder production, "The Guilty Dollar," the first feature "The Fatal Murder," having proved a miserable failure. Blanchard, a member of the banking firm, assists Potash and Perlmutter with the finances. The banker has designs on Rita Sismondi, who has been engaged by the picture magnates to portray the role of a vampire. Rita Sismondi is also loved by Sam Pemberton, the director, and even the picture moguls have fallen for her wicked charms.

When Blanchard unwittingly makes known that he is going to take Rita to a quiet roadside inn, the screen kings become incensed. A quarrel ensues and Blanchard is rendered unconscious by Abe Potash. Believing that Blanchard has been killed, Potash rides away with Rita Sismondi to a lodge which is to be used for a dramatic sequence in "The Guilty Dollar." Meanwhile Blanchard comes to life, and Mrs. Rosie Potash is made aware of her husband's escapade with the vampire. The auto carrying Rita and Potash swerves into a ditch, and the picture mogul is carried in a dazed condition into the lodge. A spectacular fire is to be staged at the lodge. Pemberton and his cameramen arrive. Rita urges Pemberton to pretend to be filming scenes to keep Mrs. Potash and Blanchard away until the film magnate regains his senses.

The lodge is aflame. Abe is saved by Rita. If $3000 can be raised they can sell "The Guilty Dollar" for a fortune. Rita and Sam agree to loan the money. Mrs. Potash forgives her husband. Abe blames Mawruss for all the trouble.

"In Hollywood With Potash & Perlmutter" is showing at the Gateway Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

PITTS PLAYERS

"The Crimson Nemesis" will be given tonight for the last time at the tent theater of Pitts Players, corner of San Fernando boulevard and Cedar street, Burbank, the curtain rising at 8:15 o'clock. Starting Monday, "Nomaia of the North" will be offered each night for a week, it is announced. This is said to be a red-blooded Canadian drama, full of laughs and replete with thrills.

The cast of "The Crimson Nemesis" comprises a talented group of artists who have already won the hearts of Glendale and Burbank theater-goers with their excellent production of "The Fortune Hunter." Seeing Pitts Players is becoming a popular nightly pastime of hundreds of local people. The management assures all patrons that ample parking space for cars has been provided and that the tent has many special features for the comfort of those who desire to see a play under the most advantageous circumstances.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Mamma's Affair" will be given its final presentation tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, the curtain rising at 8:15 o'clock. Gertrude Kellar has the leading role, that of a selfish mother who sacrifices her daughter on the altar of the multitudinous nerve-wracking little attentions she demands. Joseph McManus, an actor of prominence, portrays the role of Dr. Jensen, whose candid diagnosis of wealthy neurotics is severe.

Next week, starting Wednesday, the Dobinson Players will present "Only Thirty-Eight," announces Mrs. Florence Dobinson. This popular play has never before been given on the west coast and can be counted on to evoke favorable criticism. It has a college atmosphere and is uproariously funny. A. E. Thomas, one of America's most noted dramatists, is the author.

"Mamma's Affair" is from the pen of Rachael Barton Butler, once a student in Professor Baker's celebrated "English 47" class at Harvard university. The play was selected from among fifty as the most worthy to receive the prize of $500 offered by Oliver Morosco for the best play of the year.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DUSTING BRUSH

It so happened, one day, that Nurse Jane needed a new dusting brush to sweep up the ashes in the hollow stump bungalow. So the muskrat lady housekeeper called to Uncle Wiggily:

"Will you please hop to the twelve and thirteen-cent store and buy me a new dusting brush?"

"I will do that with much pleasure," answered the bunny rabbit gentleman, with an extra fine twinkle of his pink nose. "You shall have the finest dusting brush in the store."

Now it also happened that while this talk was going on, the Bushy Bear happened to be passing the hollow stump bungalow. The Bear was looking for a warm hole in which to spend the winter.

"I wish I could live in Uncle Wiggily's cellar," thought the bad Bushy Bear—for he was a bad chap, believe me! "If I could live in the rabbit's cellar I could slip up in the middle of the night and nibble his ears as often as I liked," whispered the Bear. "But I know Uncle Wiggily wouldn't have me in his cellar, so what's the use of asking?" And, indeed, I don't believe many of us would like a bear in our cellar, would we?

But as the Bear was passing the bungalow he heard Uncle Wiggily say he would go to the store and get Nurse Jane a dusting brush.

"Ha! That gives me an idea!" whispered the Bear. "I have just thought of a trick to play on that rabbit."

Quickly the Bear shuffled off through the woods until he came to the den of the Fuzzy Fox.

"Come with me, Mr. Fox, and I will show you how to play a trick on Uncle Wiggily," whispered the Bear. "Listen—he is going to get a dusting brush. Now your tail is just like a brush. You must hide your body in a pile of leaves along the path Uncle Wiggily will take. Hide your body but let your dusting brush tail stick out. Uncle Wiggily will think he has found a dusting brush. He'll hop over to pick it up. Out of the leaves you'll burst and grab him, and I'll help you nibble his ears. I'll be hiding in the bushes nearby."

"That's very kind of you, I'm sure," said the Fox. "We'll try that trick. As you say, my fuzzy tail is much like a dusting brush. But I wouldn't like anything to happen to it."

"Nothing will happen except that we'll nibble that rabbit's ears!" chuckled the Bear. "Come on, now!"

So the Bear hid in the bushes and the Fox hid in a pile of leaves beside the path, with only his big tail sticking out. And it did look just like a dusting brush.

Along came Uncle Wiggily on his way to the store. He saw the tail of the Fox sticking out.

"Oh, there's a fine brush," said the rabbit. "But that pile of leaves—they ought to be set on fire and burned so they won't blow all over. I'll burn the leaves and then I'll wseep up the ashes with the dusting brush I have found."

Quickly Uncle Wiggily set fire to the leaves. Now, of course, a Fox is afraid of fire, and no sooner were the leaves burning than out popped the Fuzzy Chap, and he called to the hiding Bear:

"Come on! Run! Uncle Wiggily is too much for us!"

"So he is!" growled the Bear. "I'm afraid we'll never nibble his ears!" And he ran away with the Fox.

"Well, isn't that surprising!" cried the bunny as the pile of leaves burned. "What I thought was a dusting brush was the tail of the Fox. It's a good thing I didn't try to pick it up." Then he hopped on and bought a brush at the store and once again his ears were saved. And if the olive oil will tie a pink ribbon on the you next about Uncle Wiggily and neck of the vinegar bottle I'll tell Jollie's cheese cake.

PLACE KICK GIVES TITLE TO BULLDOG LIGHTWEIGHTS

Pasadena Defeats Glendale Class B Team in Finals When Muldey Sends Oval Over Crossbar from Fifteen Yard Line

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

Battering Glendale's line, but getting only near enough to drop over a field goal, the Pasadena Bulldogs defeated the Glendale lightweights yesterday, 3 to 0, on Broadway field, for the class B division championship of Southern California, before a crowd of 5000 persons.

Throughout the first half the Glendale eleven led the pace, outplaying its opponent at times, but a break and the educated toe of Muldey, Pasadena quarter, gave the Bulldogs the crucial point.

During the second half the locals played a defensive game and at only one time were anywhere near the Pasadena goal. The Bulldogs made many attempts to score in the second and third quarters but place-kicking distance was the farthest they could penetrate the Glendale territory. During the second and third periods Stocks, Pasadena's shining star and halfback, tried four kicks while his teammate Muldey, attempted one.

Place Kicks Wide

The Dynamiters were the aggressors in the first period, Lovell trying two place kicks from the thirty yard mark. Lovell had the direction perfect on the first but the ball was over five yards short, on the second it was yards wide. The Glendale fans were disappointed when both of Lovell's attempts went amiss because the Glendale fullback is usually a sure shot within the thirty yard mark. During the first quarter the locals were able to make yards twice to the Bulldogs' once. The ball was exchanged innumerable times by Harris and Stocks, who did the punting for their respective teams. Both kickers averaged around forty yards.

The Dynamiters began the second quarter by making yards. Lovell attempted another place kick from the forty-three yard line but the ball was blocked, Thompson making a lucky recovery for Glendale. Pasadena recovered a Glendale fumble and after an exchange of punts Stocks got loose for a twenty yard run. Ramsey went ten yards around right end. Stocks made yards, bringing the ball to Glendale's ten yard line. The Bulldogs made but four yards in three downs and Muldey fell back for his winning place kick which went over from the fifteen yard mark.

Exchange Punts

The teams continued their monotonous exchange of punts throughout most of the third quarter, the Bulldogs edging down the field on the longer kicks of Stocks. Near the end of the quarter Stocks got away again, this time for twenty yards, Benjie Brennaman throwing him on the Red and Black thirty-five yard line. Stocks attempted a place kick as the quarter ended but it was low and wide.

The Dynamiters fought hard in the fourth quarter but the Bulldogs gave them little chance to remain on the offensive. During the fourth quarter Stocks tried three place kicks without success, Muldey attempted one, while the locals made their unfruitful dying attempt to knot the count on Lovell's free kick, which was miserably under and short, from the forty yard line at a bad angle.

The Dynamiters opened their aerial attack several times during the quarter but what few passes that were completed were for paltry gains. Harris had some tough luck on boots, kicking two out of bounds before they had gone twenty yards. Brennaman saved Glendale from a more bitter defeat than when he broke up and almost intercepted the Pasadena forward pass which would have meant a touchdown.

Class A Players

Dwight Stewart played well for the locals. He was a big factor in Glendale's making four first downs. Lovell got away for three twenty yard sprints on returning punts.

Stocks, Pasadena's colored halfback, played an incomparable game for the Bulldogs. The colored gentleman attended to place kicking, punting, passing, and ripped off huge gains on returning punts and end runs. Stocks and Ramsey were both trained down from the class A division to the lightweight size.

The Dynamiters had no reason to lose the game. They seemed to lack the punch in the critical stages, being unable to get farther than the Pasadena twenty yard marker. Lovell was way off form on his place kicks, judging from his past showing he should have booted at least two over in his four tries. The lineup:

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondence of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright. 1924

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 6.—The minors are still one lap ahead of the majors and going strong. They are not willing to have any of their rights stepped upon. If the majors take anything away from them it will be only after they have put them to the rack—a torture of which the majors have been accused repeatedly in the past.

The minors will reject all overtures for anything which will give the majors more players than they now possess, or to hang on to the minor players longer than they do now. It is a fact that some club owners are coming to believe that it would be better for baseball if the majors never carried more than 25 players. They are supposed to have a maximum of 40 now and some of them, according to the minor leaguers actually have 55. If they were authorized to have 50, it is believed some of them would actually have 75.

The biggest event in the history of the minor league was the selection of Catalina Island, Los Angeles for the 1925 meeting. Atlanta and Asheville tried hard to lure the magnates down south, but the persuasive eloquence of Oscar Reichow of the Los Angeles club prevailed. It will be a long ride for some of the magnates but the visit may do them as much good as assignments to play with coast teams has done some ball players who were thought to be about through.

Christy Mathewson and Emil Fuchs spent all Wednesday afternoon dickering with the owners of the Seattle club for James Walsh, outfielder and first baseman. They had to part with Yeargin, Stryker and another pitcher yet to be named, as well as some $50,000 in cash, before they could close the deal.

All the baseball managers here are speculating as to which first baseman Ty Cobb will use next year. Most of them think it will be Neun. If that is the case the city of Birmingham is going to feel right good for the next 3 or 4 months. Neun was brought up around Birmingham, though he played his most spectacular baseball last season for St. Paul.

The Washington club hopes that Walter Johnson will not buy any California franchise. That is now an open secret, and if Johnson cannot locate on the coast he will not get away from Washington. In all his baseball experience, Griffith was never so ready to get rid of money as he is in this Johnson case. They've got it all figured out in Washington how Walter can earn as much by playing with Washington next year as if he had an investment of $400,000 working for him at six per cent.

The Toledo baseball club will go to Deland, Florida, to train. Deland is near the celery center of Florida and as celery is good for nerves it is evident why Toledo makes Deland its port of call. Jimmy Burke says he will have a better team next season, even if he has lost some of last season's stars.

Pinelli will play third base for Cincinnati next season. This will be a welcome bit of news to those who like to see true merit rewarded. There has been much talk about Dressen, the St. Paul star, playing third for the Reds and the fans have been wondering why, as Pinelli has been making a showing at third without many equals. To take him away from the job would be incredible with Cincinnati needing all the infielding it can get. Jack Hendricks promises faithfully now that Pinelli will play third. But he does not say who will play short. Maybe it will be Dressen, maybe Critz.

The Brooklyn club with the best pitching staff in the National league wants a third baseman but there is none in sight. Not even an old time third baseman is left. Money is available for any individual who will produce a third baseman for Brooklyn.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

If some of these drivers who have been breaking all known records in warm-ups at Culver City speedway fails to do any one of the 250 miles of the Classic tomorrow under nothing-flat, fans should be disappointed. Boys in their warm-ups are, standing still when they don't tear off couple hundred miles a minute. Either the new track is faster than a Mexican firing squad or the timekeepers have watches slower than soldiers' bonus.

That press agent at Culver City has missed his vocation. He should have been 'idea man' for Mary Garden or Peggy Hopkins, those two little girls who just crave front page stuff. Hollywood press agents will have to move way back in the last row now that this guy at Culver City has stepped out with his Corona. He can think of more fast records than a chorus girl can drinks.

As one of the front-row steppers in 'Sally, Irene and Mary' said on her recent visit to L. A. with the fifth New York company, in describing some of the 'sleeper-jumps' over one-night stands: 'Us girls put up at some swell hotels—running water and everything but you have to run for it.'

That fits the Corona pusher at Culver City bowl. What the speed demons don't run he does. He thinks only in telephone numbers when reporting daily work-outs in gasoline alley.

Jimmy Britt won't let the boys forget he once was a lightweight of no mean punches. Jimmy dons the make-up each day this week and steps before the footlights at one of the 5-a-day houses in L. A. Jimmy could fight ONCE. So could Davy and Goliath.

Which reminds. Our namesake who knocks out What Nots—More What than Not for Mr. Hearst's L. A. morning paper, starts his column with the premise that Jack Britton was ONCE a great fighter and goes on to deduce from this premise that Jack should draw a big crowd under the 12-round stanzas.

What loose argument. Not long ago—at opening of Culver City stadium last summer, to be correct—Ye Ed sat at the ringside when Big Jim Jeffries was introduced to the ring worms. Big Jim was so good at one time that he just had to gracefully resign his heavyweight crown because no one could grab it. Who wants to pay to see Big Jim don the mitts under the 12-round stanzas? He was a good fighter ONCE.

A good man ONCE is most likely a PUNK now. We live in the present—or at least the ring worms do. Ring worms don't want old war horses dragged in excepting to be introduced. They like to look at 'em, applaud 'em unconsciously and then sit back and see a couple of young fellows do some fighting.

Young fellows may not know any more about prescription handed out by Kid Queensberry than Hollywood does about blizzards but they have the willingness plus pep and punch which old boys can't muster despite the fact they were good ONCE.

When Ye Ed's namesake starts a lot of words about a Dempsey-Gibbons match he's saying something in every word no matter how many he writes. Dempsey is far from being an old war horse and so is Gibbons. And by the same token Dempsey is far from being the Dempsey who floored Jess Willard a half-dozen times in one round at Toledo, and the wild bull of the Pampas seven times at the Polo Grounds in one stanza.

Tommy Gibbons is better than when he walked out of the ring at Shelby, Mont., a couple of Julys ago, smiling after 12 rounds of kicks from this same Mr. Dempsey. Here is one glove artist just as clever as Champion Jack. He lacks Jack's wallop, that's all. Jim Corbett lacked Peter Jackson's wallop, John L's and a lot of other wallopers but he got there and over their "dead" bodies. And Tommy isn't one of these ONCE guys.

BOXING NOTES

AT ST. PAUL—Paul Berlenbach knocked out Tommy Burns, Detroit, in fifth round.

AT MINNEAPOLIS—Joey Sanger, Milwaukee, shaded Eddie Anderson, Chicago, ten rounds.

AT SAN FRANCISCO—Jack Silver, local lightweight, easily outpointed Erbie Moak of New York, four rounds. Tommy Cello knocked out Joe Powell in a round. Chuck Hellman shaded Sidney White.

AT LOS ANGELES — Spug Myers, Pocatello lightweight, defeated Joe Benjamin of California; Billy Hart of Denver defeated Frankie Grandetta of Portland.

GIANTS AND CUBS TO TRADE STARS

Deal Is Reported on Fire Wherein Meusel Will Pass to Chicago

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—In spite of the fact that John McGraw broke into the public print today with a statement to the effect that he intended to stand pat on the Giants as is, it is quite within a range of possibility that a material change may be affected in the personnel of the ball club before next week. In brief and to wit the giants are fixing to make a trade with another big league club and it is the writer's information that the latter is the Chicago Cubs.

The identity of the players involved is the sole uncertainty about the transaction. That the Giants and Cubs have come together on a players deal and are almost in accord on its terms is absolute fact, not fancy.

One man persistently mentioned in the whispers about the proposed trade is "Irish" Meusel, a young man highly esteemed in those parts several years ago but not regarded with any degree of managerial affection at the moment. The Cubs are said to desire Meusel because they need a right hand hitting outfielder who can slap one further than second base.

The Cubs are total strangers with fielders who have a punch. This condition is particularly annoying because the Cubs are playing 77 games a year in a hat box.

Hard Hitter Wanted

A man with Meusel's propensity for hitting them high and far would get a lot of home runs in Chicago, whereas in New York the boys are camping out near the fences and converting his long flies into putouts. It is the writer's understanding that Meusel is the man the Cubs are seeking.

Their outfielders are the fast roving type and the fences in Chicago are cramping their style a little. A man can't do much roving with a concrete wall constantly at his elbow.

An outfielder and a pitcher are the men whom McGraw is believed to be seeking in return for Meusel. One report named Arnold Statz as the outfielder in question but whether McGraw has been sold on this part of the proposition is not known. Statz didn't hit the size of his neck band in Chicago last year and has outgrown his welcome there.

He is a former Giant, however, and McGraw has established something of a reputation for esteeming ex-employes. The case of Heinie Groh and Charley Herzog are notable expressions of this complex.

BASEBALL

The only home game tomorrow afternoon will be between the Glendale Caseys and Hollywood Knights. It will be the opening game of the K. C. league winter schedule. Manager Harry Manush of the local knights announces the usual Casey lineup will start. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

The Glendale White Sox will journey to Gilmore park, Los Angeles, tomorrow to meet the Gilmore Oilers in a Southern California Winter league game. Emerson will probably pitch for the local team.

Interest is keen in the Burbank-Lankershim game to be staged tomorrow afternoon at Burbank. Both teams are tied for second place in the San Fernando Valley league. Zelzah, in first place, plays at Owensmouth.

Pasadena Eagles go to Glendora to meet the Citrus Belt league team in a game that will have a lot of bearing on positions. The Crown City team plays Azusa at Tournament park.

Lorin Ury and his Pasadena Merchants are confident of victory over Hollywood Merchants when the two teams meet in a Southern California Winter league game at Brookside tomorrow. Bill Pertica will hurl for Pasadena.

L. A. Coast Club Trades Wood for Cub Players

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6.—Wally Wood, hard hitting left fielder of the Los Angeles Coast league club, has been traded to the Chicago Cubs for several players, it was reported here today. It was also said that Cedric Durst, St. Louis Browns' center fielder, had again been turned over to Los Angeles under an optional agrement. He was with the Seraphs last year.

Break Between Brazil And Japan Not Likely

TOKIO, Dec. 6.—A threatened international complication between Japan and Brazil as the result of the reported ban against Japanese citizens entering the big South American republic was virtually dissipated today when the Tokio foreign office was officially informed that the Brazilian restriction is but temporary and that it implies to all nationalities alike—not discriminating against Japan in any way.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 6.—The football season will not down, even the end of the usual big game dates. The interest seems to go on unabated throughout the middlewest and the coast.

Practically every high school and institution of learning now has not one team but several and these boys not only know football but have an intimate acquaintance with the deeds of gridiron stars of the prominent teams throughout the country. And now, added to all the interest and excitement of discussing the standing of teams and the relative qualities of a thousand star players, come the most important intersectional post-season games we have ever had.

It is estimated that ten million people have witnessed the football contests of the season of 1924 and probably an equal number or more have listened in on the radio to graphic reports, play by play, of the games. No wonder then that there are millions interested in those post-season struggles in which intersectional rivalry will have a full outlet for its expression.

The Pacific coast believes that it can at least break even on the two great games of this character in which California is pitted against Pennsylvania and Stanford against Notre Dame. California is coached by a Penn star and all American man—Andy Smith—while Stanford is coached by a Cornell man and all American star—Glenn Warner. The records of both these coaches are quite familiar to all football fans along the Atlantic seaboard as well as throughout the country, while the work of Lou Young, who is coaching Penna, stands for itself in its unbeaten record of two seasons. Knute Rockne who has for years handled the football fortunes of Notre Dame, has made a name and reputation for himself and his team second to none throughout the country. So as January 1st approaches, the interest grows apace in the momentous struggles to come.

What will the so-called "four horsemen" of Rockne's back field do against the stalwart Stanford line and stars and Captain Lawson? Will that hard line smasher of Warner's be able to penetrate the Notre Dame line? Will Nevern and Cleveland, two other Stanford stars who did not play in the California game, get in against the visitors? Will Cuddeback perform as he did against California? Will Warner's forward passing find a weakness in Rockne's defense as it did in Andy Smith's?

These are all vital questions in the Notre Dame-Stanford contest. In the California-Penn match there are equally pertinent ones. Will Horrell, the star California center, out play his opponents in the middle of the line? Will McGuiley, that remarkable Penn tackle, smash Andy Smith's plays on his side of the line? Will Craig substitute in this and be equal to his task? How will Kruege, McGraw and Douglas compare with Imlay and Dixon, Smith's backfield wonders? The season is certainly coming to a glorious climax never before enjoyed by its enthusiasts.

BOXING NOTES

Joe Benjamin failed to show the much-touted ability he claims to have and which he claims as basis for a meeting with Benny Leonard, when Benjamin was handed a lacing last night by Spud Myers at Hollywood American Legion stadium. Myers took all four rounds with ease. Ray Neuman won over Nick Newman in the semi-windup. Frankie Grandetta lost to Billy Hart in the special preliminary. Johnny Grella and Sailor Ackerman provided the best bout of the card, Grella willing the decision. Paul Duarte and Roy Edwards drew. Joe Dunn and Bobby Bridges shared a decision. Joe Levinthal and Ewall Paul battled to a draw in the opening bout.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor:—I want to add my mite to the G. P.'s (Grateful Patients) who from time to time write to you.

"My history is this: I am slightly over forty-one, five feet, eleven inches tall, and weighed 190 without clothes. This weight had been accumulated slowly for a good many years and I was mildly concerned about it, but like most people, that was all I did about it.

"Nine weeks ago my good wife produced your book on diet and began to read it aloud. With her help, I started in. The first week I lost three pounds, and so I kept it up, with daily calories calculated with letter scales, to the amusement (but with the cordial assistance) of the family. By keeping the daily calories in the vicinity of 1800, I continued to lose my three pounds every week, with no discomfort at all, and got my weight down to 163.

"The foregoing is perhaps usual enough in your experience. It was novel to me, however. But the greatest novelty, and one which your book doesn't emphasize, is this: since that time, my weight hasn't varied a pound either way, and apparently I pay no attention at all to my diet. I know I have never had so much ice cream as I have had this summer. Of course the answer is, that almost unconsciously I do watch out, and if the weight goes up a hair one day, cut down on a meal next day. But the wonder of it is—I seem to be living on the fat of the land, and still keeping normal!—F."

I am giving your letter following the letter from Mrs. L., in Thursday's Answers to Correspondents, because you are an example of what I explained Thursday; that is, first, when down to normal weight one can eat all one wants, without gaining; second, that the number of calories needed for maintenance and reducing diet is very much lower in those who are tall. (You see, you, with your five feet, eleven inches, reduced rapidly on 1800 calories, and Mrs. L., with her five feet, three inches, had to go under 1000 calories in order to get results); third, the normal maintenance diet for any individual has a fairly wide range, and then it is the average for a period of time that counts.

Perhaps your conclusion that you do unconsciously watch out is correct, and it is also possible that after your nine weeks' low rations, you really don't eat so much as you formerly did. At any rate, better watch the scales closely because weight may slowly accumulate again on this "fat of the land!"

Those of you who missed our instructions on reducing may have them by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope and ten cents in stamps and have the same joy that F. is experiencing. The reducing booklet has a list of foods with their caloric values. It is not necessary to have a scale to measure the foods because you can judge approximately without one. However, a letter scale is a good investment for those who feel they are on very low calorie rations, and still do not reduce for it is highly probable that they are not good judges of weight and size and are taking larger portions than the law allows.

Don't forget that our campaign against overweight is not to increase the beauty of the scenery, but to lessen the number of hospitals and to do our bit to get the private medical practice in the field of keeping individuals well, instead of treating them after they are ill, as the physicians are popularly supposed to do in China. It's too bad to spoil a good story, but I have heard Dr. George Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation, say that he had made many trips to China but he never saw any evidence of this practice there. This gives America the chance to be the first in this worthy field.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

THE EYES, BROWS AND LASHES

Eyes do much in magnetic attention in your direction and the beauty of your eyes depends more on their expression than either size or color—and the expression and the extent to which your eyes "magnet" depends upon you! If you haven't a naturally sweet nature, pretend you have while you cultivate one. Force yourself to become interested in things and in people, then your eyes will look bright and animated. Look people straight in the face while you talk, and you'll compel them, unconsciously, to notice your eyes and like them—and you.

When you are tired, hold hot wet cloths over the eyes. This rests and refreshes them. Wash the eyes once a week or so with warm boracic acid solution in an eyecup. Brush your eyebrows daily with a tiny brush (an old toothbrush does nicely) and if you cover your eyelashes with face powder, rub the least bit of cold cream on them to get it off.

If your eyebrows are too thick, pull out the hairs above the ideal line (that is, the nice slender curved line you want the eyebrows to take—with tweezers, and clip off those below it with manicure scissors, the points turned away from the face. If the eyebrows are scraggly, wet your fingers with mucilage, draw the hairs to a neat line, let the mucilage dry on all night. In a week or so those hairs will be better trained.

If the brows are too thin, rub with hair tonic or castor oil. If the eyelashes are hopelessly thin and short, clip off the ends and keep them clipped for three months. Meantime, rub the lashes with castor oil at night. This treatment darkens and nourishes them. If you want a cream to darken the lashes that is perfectly harmless, take a tablespoonful of the complexion cream which I so frequently mention in this column, and mix thirty grains of peroxide of manganese with it. Take a little of this cream on the tip of the fingers, forefinger and thumb and rub onto the lashes and rub off again.

C. I. M.—Any exercise in which you use the fingers will help to strengthen them, but since this weakness followed a severe illness I should think that it would disappear after you have built up your general health. After adult years there is very little to be done to correct knock-knees.

R. B. F.—Apply cold cream by a gentle rotary motion of the finger tips using only as much cream as the pores will absorb.

Juanita—Your very oily scalp probably comes from a sluggish condition of the digestive tract that will have to be corrected to rid yourself of the trouble. Instead of shampooing every week, rub the oil out of your hair with soft towels and try a tonic in which there is no oil, massaging it into scalp three times a week.

Miss P. W.—Consult the doctor about your skin as you may be in need of a tonic, or advice on diet, to help you overcome this loss of color in your complexion.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question—The Editor.

Friends of Mrs. G. J. Bayless of 314 West Magnolia avenue, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. George J. Wondra in San Francisco, will be interested to learn that she is getting along nicely from a recent operation, which she underwent while in the bay city.

Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Moon of Oakland, who have been visiting in the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Chrisman, 310 East Chestnut street for the past ten days, are planning to leave Monday morning for their northern home, motoring by way of Bakersfield and Fresno.

Mrs. Arthur C. Brown and daughter, Blanche Evelyn of 201 West Milford street, returned the first of the week from Lindsay, where they visited over Thanksgiving with Harold Beeson, son of Mrs. Brown. Mr. Brown and son Meredith and Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. Abbie Mendenhall, returned Saturday from Lindsay, where they were visiting.

W. C. T. U. Meets

Emphasis will be placed on young people's and children's work in the program of the Women's Christian Temperance Union this year, according to Mrs. Hattie Doughty, county president of the W. C. T. U., who was the speaker at the meeting of the local union yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. E. Richardson, 1856 South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Doughty recently returned from Chicago, where she attended the National W. C. T. U. convention, which was held for five days in November. She told of the visit of all convention delegates to the home of Francse E. Willard, founder and the first leader of the W. C. T. U. at Evanston, Ill. The delegates visited the home in which Miss Willard lived; her room, which is kept just as she left it; the church in which she worshiped and the schoolhouse at which she taught. Mrs. Doughty stated that a demonstration was put on by the delegates from each state, and that the California demonstration was well received. Judging from the increase in the membership, stated Mrs. Doughty, the white ribboners must surely be after the enforcement of prohibition. The national convention was attended by 18,000 registered delegates and 800 voting delegates. The devotional service was conducted by Mrs. R. W. Mottern, who read the 92nd Psalm. Mrs. G. H. Rowe conducted the study in government. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Inez Sipple, 230 North Louise street, on December 19.

I know a housekeeper who likes to change her dining room and living room in some striking way before the Christmas holidays. She does this, she says, because she always has a large family gathering for Christmas dinner and entertains them all afternoon in her living room, and she feels that redecorated rooms brighten the occasion as well as the house. Year before last she repapered; last Christmas she bought new dining room and living room rugs; this year she is merely going to change the furniture around and add one new piece for she cannot afford to do more.

I believe that we would all find additional Christmas cheer if we followed her example. Even if we did not have guests, we would find the house considerably brightened by some sort of redecoration. Here are some of the little ways that are within the reach of the average pocketbook:

New Overdrapes for the Windows: If we cannot afford expensive fabrics we can at least have unbleached muslin, decorating it with stenciling, or with cretonne bands sewed on as a border. Indian head, too, is inexpensive material for this use; it comes in over 12 different colors and shades (tub-proof and fade-proof) and can be used either plain or, like the unbleached muslin, banded with cretonne or home-stencilled. Plain ecru linen toweling is also excellent for window side-curtains and valances, decorated as just suggested.

Cushions give a room an air of luxury. Heap them on the living room lounge or davenport and toss one into the arm chair. Another cushion on the hearth will suggest comfort.

Foot Stools add greatly to the living room also. Buy an old wood frame from a second-hand store and upholster it yourself with a remnant of tapestry.

Perhaps the thing that gives the greatest charm to a room is a number of drop-lights. In addition to the main reading lamp, have a small iron "bridge" floor-lamp, or a more expensive, taller floor lamp, or just a table-lamp with silk shade set on a low taborette. With these extra drop-lights set a considerable distance from each other in a room—one perhaps beside an arm-chair and one beside the davenport—you will have achieved that fully furnished look which is so restful.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Uncle Sam Considers Utah's Potash Lands

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—An oral argument to fix the location of patents to public land in which potash is discovered in the great Salt Lake desert in Utah, was held before the secretary of the interior. There are thirty potash permits, involving about 83,840 acres located in Toole county. Attorneys for the 35 persons holding these permits asked that because of their discoveries they are entitled to ownership of the portion containing the heaviest deposits of potash as their one-fourth share of each permit. The interior department will decide the matter later, it was announced.

Lady Mary Freed From Sir Knighted Husband

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Lady Mary Helen Burton was granted a divorce from Sir Pomeroy Burton today on the grounds of misconduct. They were married in Brooklyn in 1894. Sir Pomeroy formerly was a New York newspaper executive.

Notwithstanding the tremendous advance of Japan in many lines since it set out to emulate western civilization, that country is still hopelessly behind the times in methods of construction and building.

TAXI DRIVER GETS PSYCHOLOGY TEST

Chicago Company Prospects Put Through Mill In Qualifying

By A. E. GARVIN
For International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Psychology has entered the taxicab driver's life.

Chicago Yellow Cab Co. is subjecting its prospective drivers to a mental test to determine whether they are fit to cope with the emergencies which confront the pilot of a taxicab daily.

The tests are given by professors of the department of psychology of Northwestern university, and are sponsored by the county coroner. Two tests are used.

In the first, the applicant driver sits in a small compartment similar to the front of a taxicab. Six electric light sockets are before him and he is given six plugs to insert in the sockets. He is told that one of them may be a "live wire."

A lever at his side, similar to a brake lever, will shut off all current if he has the presence of mind to use it.

Tests Given Applicant

As soon as the man starts putting the plugs in the sockets a harmless but noisy flash of electric current is set off about two feet from his face. If the applicant is fit for emergencies, the psychologists say, he will grasp the lever which shuts off the current. If he is not—well, some of them have jumped up and run from the room in terror.

In the second test the applicant is shown four tables; one in good condition, one very dilapidated, one with a mushroom top and the other covered with water.

Given a bag of sugar, an electric light globe and some heavy object, the man is told to place these on the various tables as judiciously and as rapidly as possible.

If they put the sugar on the wet table, the electric light globe on the mushroom top and the heavy object on the dilapidated table—they don't get the job.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The stock market was under the influence of Friday's selling movement in the early trading today, and offerings of railroad and industrial stocks were poured on the market in fairly large volume.

First prizes showed the effect of this preponderance of selling orders, with principal irregularity in the railroad and oil stocks. From the opening, however, the high priced industrials and specialties jumped into higher price levels, in some cases gaining 3 to 5 points in the first half hour.

Heavy buying of the railroad stocks was resumed in this period. Missouri Pacific, Katy, Kansas City Southern, Wabash and other of the non-dividend rails featured a strong and active market, with prices about a point higher on the average. The equipment stocks also reflected the strong financial position of the railroad companies and the placing of large orders for new cars and engines this week. Pullman was the leader in this latter movement, with a 3-point advance to a new high at 145. Baldwin and New York Air Brake were active at slightly higher price.

Week-end industrial surveys showed that while the outlook is favorable, industry as a whole has not kept pace with the swift upward movement of prices in the stock market, and this injected a note of caution into the speculative markets. After heavy trading in the first hour, the pace slackened in the second and forward movements were confined to a smaller number of stocks.

Specialty stocks continued to attract attention. U. S. Realty made up 4 points of yesterday's loss, United Drug at 115⅞ showed a gain of 11 points from yesterday's low, Philadelphia company led the public utility stocks with an advance of 3½ points to a new high at 55¾, Columbian Carbon made 3 at 50¾; Radio sold a point higher; General Asphalt exceeded its best previous record by nearly 2 points.

The coppers held most of their advance, stimulated by the firm market for copper metal. Oils were mostly irregular, though slight improvement was shown by Marland, Pure Oil, Shell Union and California Pete.

The market was unable to withstand the heavy profit-taking which developed in the last period without a moderate decline in prices which was not confined to any one section of the market, but spread from the industrials to the rails, equipments and motors. Closing prices were near the low of the day.

The bond market was steady with additional recoveries in the prices of Liberty bonds, the first 4¼s selling up to 10.28, second 4¼s at 101.3; fourth 4¼s at 101.29 and treasury 4¼s at 105.20.

Second grade railroad bonds were active and strong with Frisco income sixes at a new high at 87⅞; International Great Northern adjustment sixes at 70¼; Katy adjustment 5s at 79; New York Central debenture sixes sold at 113. United States Rubber 5s of 1947 featured the industrial list with an advance to 85⅞.

Stock sales today 960,400 shares; bonds $9,627,00.

Sales of stocks for week 11,698,800 shares; bonds $107,559,000.

Giant Sea Octopus Is Cut Loose From Diver

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 6.—Victor Hugo's "Toilers of the Sea" was vividly recalled when provincial police engaged in dragging the sea bottom at Sidney Island for the bodies of Captain Gillis and his son, with difficulty rescued one of the divers who engaged in battle with a giant octopus.

Spasmodic violent jerks on the diver's life line notified the watchers on the boat above that something was wrong. He was hurried to the surface and when brought to view the tenacles of a monster sea spider, with dome-like head, great staring eyes, and horny, snapping beak, were entwined about the diving suit with deadly intent. Hurried blows of a sharp axe cut the creature loose and the diver ascended to the boat none the worse for his adventure.

Soviet Fears Great Britain 'Imperialism'

By WILLIAM RESWICK
For International News Service.

MOSCOW, Dec. 6.—Responsible leaders in Soviet administration circles are afraid of "British imperialism." They made no secret of the fact that they are alarmed over anti-soviet demonstrations and fear that an imperial power is behind them.

Soviet officials in Moscow claim they have knowledge of a plan calling for a concerted German and British military campaign which they believe has been made possible in the former country by the working of the Dawes plan.

Moscow believes and is frightened by its belief, that German capital, still a tremendously powerful factor, would welcome such a move because of the fear that the radical spirit may spread from Russia to Germany.

Germany also is dissatisfied with the Russian trade monopoly, Moscow believes.

HIGHWAYS FORM BIG ITEM IN U. S.

Authorities Set $75,000,000 Aside to Build 175,000 Miles of Roads

Road building may develop into the nation's most active industry in 1925, according to statements of highway authorities in the east.

Scheduled for distribution during the coming twelve months are $75,000,000 of government money, representing the nation's part toward the system of roads to be completed under provisions of the federal highway act of 1921. Less than half of this work has been completed. It contemplates a network of 175,000 miles of highway, so that the remaining work to be done would call for a tremendous amount of construction.

Even in the most populous districts where there is a popular belief that highways have been practically completed, there is much work to be done. Only 40 per cent of the roads have been surfaced in the best developed districts of the country and in some important states less than 1 per cent of the highways have been treated.

Illinois Takes Lead

The demand for improved roads has never been so great. The nearly 16,000,000 motor vehicles in the country have brought a widespread desire for smooth traveling. And in turn, improved highways have served to increase the number of automobiles.

In some states large programs of highway construction are under way. Illinois voted $100,000,000 bond issue at the last election, and other middle western states are preparing to appeal not only to trans-continental motorists because of their good roads, but to their own residents.

California has its own problem, as all of the $73,000,000 provided by bond issues and the $17,000,000 received from the national government have either been spent or allocated. Ways and means must be found for raising funds for new construction. Conferences already have been held by good roads advocates, including the Automobile Club of Southern California, which has been the leading proponent of good roads in the state since its organization. It is believed that a definite program will be worked out within the next few weeks for recommendation to the state legislature which will meet in January.

A. L. BAIRD HEAD OF FRAZIER PARK

Harry G. MacBain Is Also Heavily Interested In Mountain Project

The sale of all interest in the property of the Frazier Mountain Park and Fisheries Co., Inc., held by W. L. Twining and L. H. Myers is reported by A. L. Baird and Harry G. MacBain, who have purchased the entire property and will proceed with the development of it along the lines that have already been mapped out and that have proven so successful since the property was first placed on the market.

In the reorganization of the company Mr. Baird was elected president, Mr. MacBain secretary, and N. T. Baird, who has been associated with the company almost since its inception, treasurer. Mrs. MacBain and Attorney D. W. Stephenson were elected to fill the vacancies on the board of directors.

New Units Planned

Beginning shortly after January 1, the company will place on sale several new units that are now being mapped out by the surveyors, and in the meantime those portions of the tract that have already been platted will be sold.

Eight miles of new trails have been cut through the property, all seven lakes have been completed and will be filled with water by the end of the year, and the 100,000 fish that have been purchased will be placed in the rearing ponds in the near future, later to be released into the various lakes.

President Baird reported a steady volume of sales of the cabin sites at Frazier Mountain park every week, and predicted units that have been placed on the market will be exhausted by the time the new units are ready for sale.
